CAMPUS

1968-69: Viet Nam War, Czechoslovakia invasion, campus riots, Arab-Israeli conflict. Despite these violent conflicts throughout the world, DHS progressed peacefully. Traditions were questioned and evaluated and sometimes broken—open campus, freedom during study hall, new constitution, no tardy or admit slips, pass-fail system, work-study program.

A school spirited year; three rooter buses to games. Pie eating contest. Preparing for the contest.

Free exchange of ideas was encouraged and often brought sounds of laughter. Hungry classmates were fed; a coke machine is installed. Basketball hoopsters battle it out with the faculty. But in the back of the minds of all seniors was Graduation!

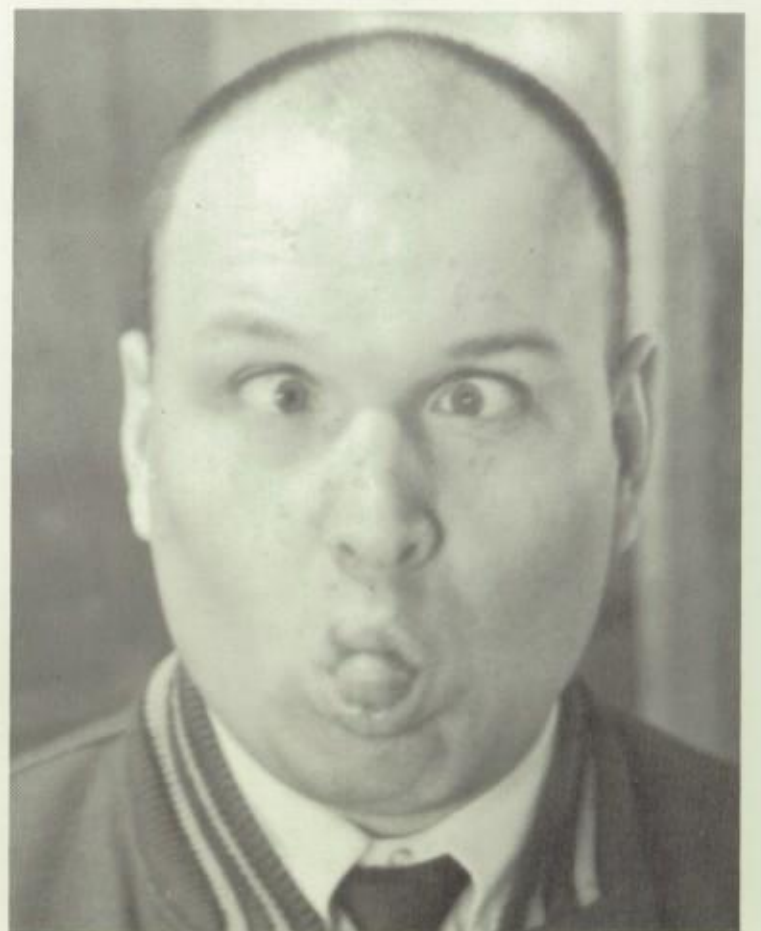

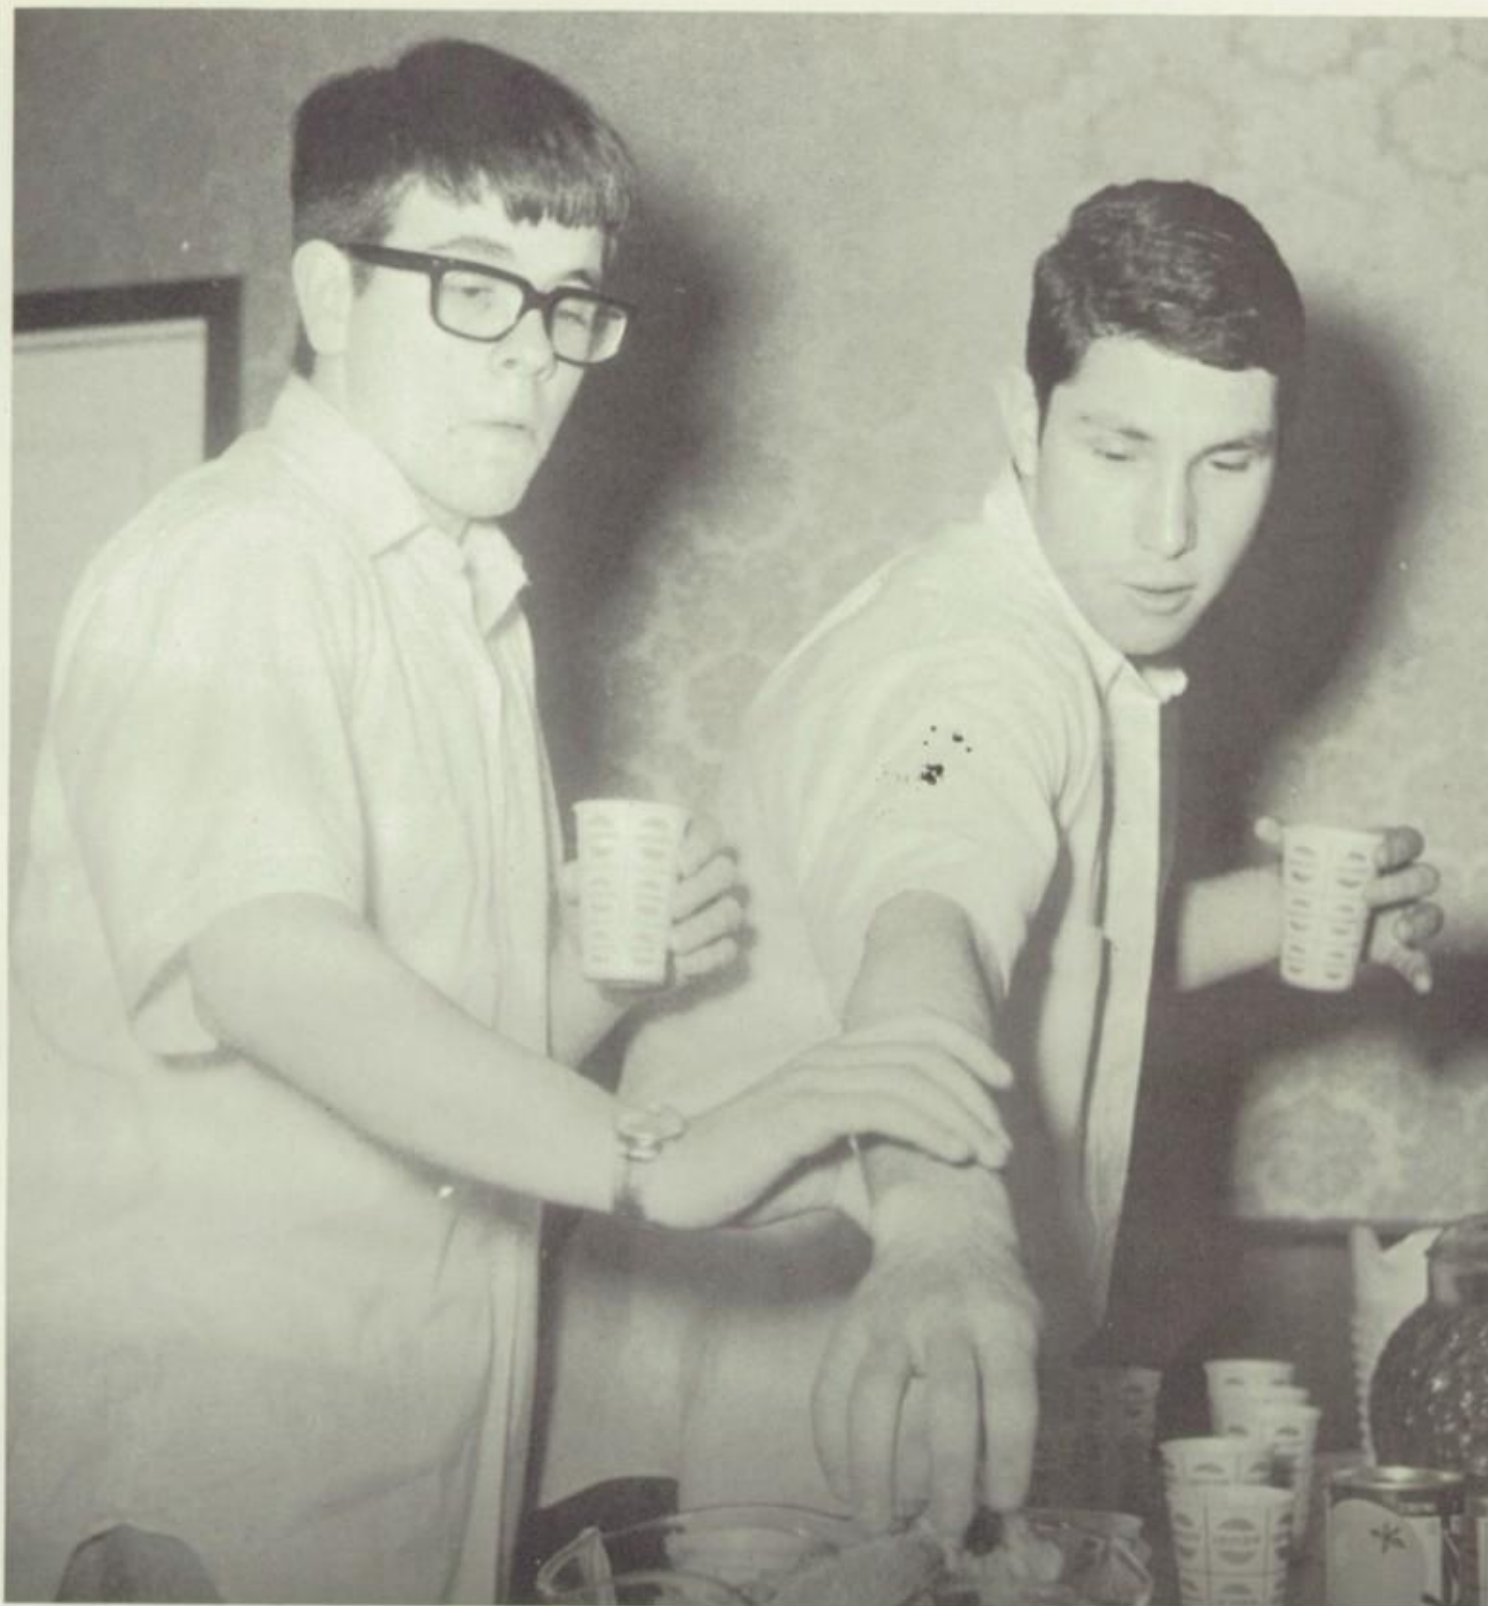

"Good taste" was the restriction on dress. DHS'ers clad themselves in square heeled and square toed shoes, jumpers, ruffled blouses, puffy sleeves, blue jeans, bell bottomed pants and red hunting hats. Ringletts, side-burns, beards, all "in".

Spring concerts. Between class activities, standing by a heater, sipping coke, eating candy bars, doughnuts or cupcakes. After school, a short run to the Dairy Queen, then back for track practice.

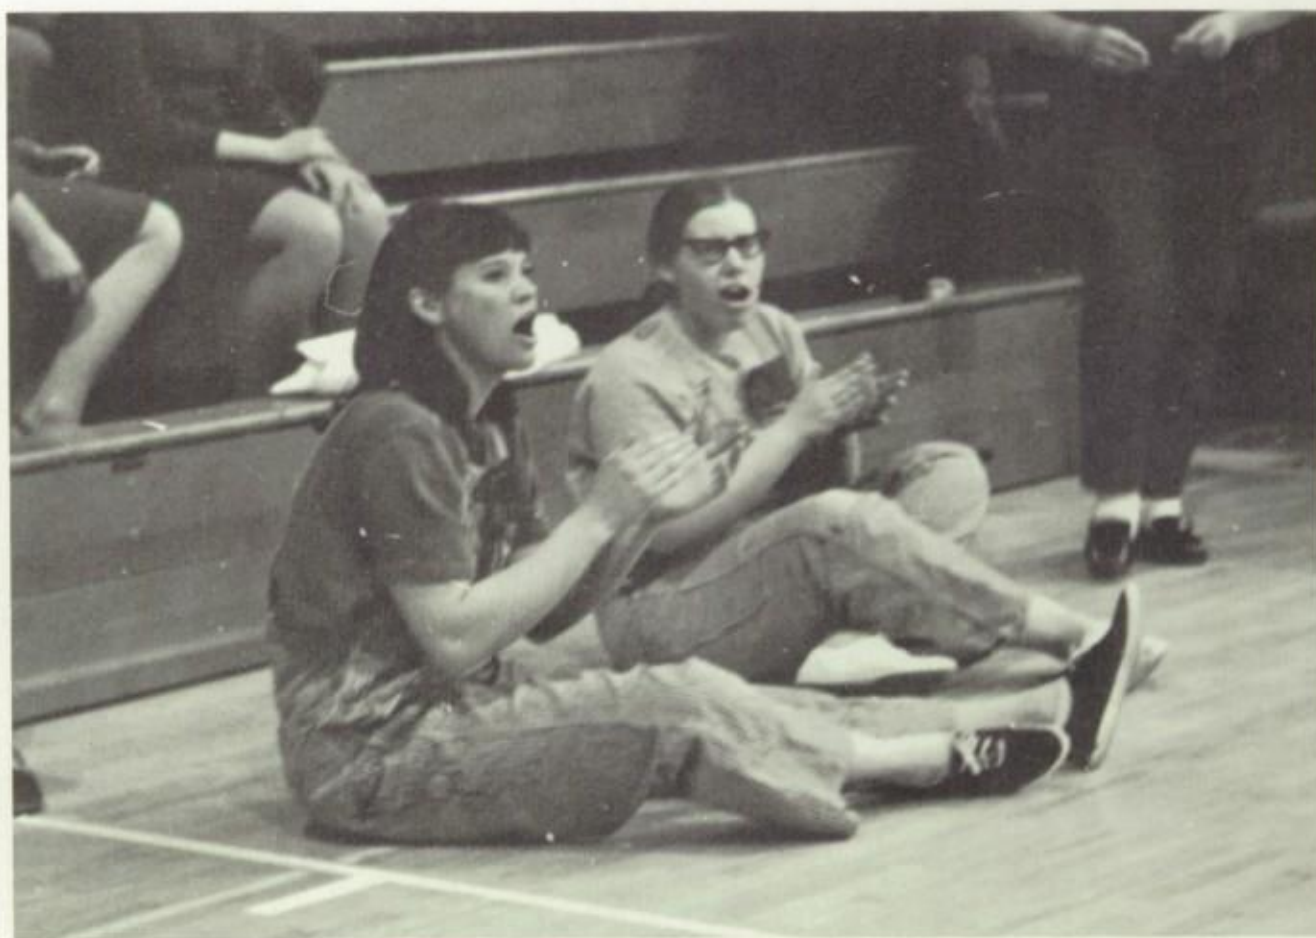

Record 3 feet of snow—no school for a week. A coat is donned as the seminar heat goes to another extreme. "Mr. Ugly" contest. AFS Spanish student Jose Apraiz restrained an American friend from a favorite hobby.

Cheering, teasing, watching, voting. "Tricky Dick," "Hubey Dubey Humphrey" and "Wicked Wallace" on the national scene; "Dowdy and Joers, the Best Team," "Get in the Swing, vote Ching," "Nel is Swell," "Vote for Enthusiasm, vote Close" on the campus scene.

Wrestling stats. Wrestlers take UVL trophy. Faculty cheerleaders help their colleagues win. "Mysterious Whistlers," Steve Wold, Bruce Ellis, Tom Chasm, participate in "It's A Small World."

1968-69: A successful and fun year.

DOUGLAS HIGH SCHOOL secretary, LuAnn Smith and district secretaries, Billie Redinius, Ava Benedict and Doris Green.

More responsibility was given to students in the form of open campus and unregulated dress codes, the practice of tardy slips became obsolete, and independent study was encouraged during one's study hall.

Group counseling was initiated by Counselor David Obert, the purpose being "to come to understand one's self better."

Noon hour was shortened and a ten minute break was added between second and third periods.

Band Involved 20

"The smallest band in the Umpqua League," this is an appropriate discription of Douglas 20 piece band, conducted by Richard Blakely.

Students spent an average of six hours a week practicing such songs as "Love is Blue" and "Talk to the Animals."

During the spring, the band learned to march. Blakely hoped to have enough students for a marching band in 1970.

The band performed at ball games, pep assemblies and concerts in their red blazers. Plans were made to re-style the band uniform.

Various Business Skills Developed

ATTEMPTING TO CORRECT an error, Bruce Ellis rechecked his book-keeping.

"Stop! Wait a minute! Does anyone have a kleenex? I can't take transcription with my nose running!"

Twelve courses gave students the opportunity to acquire several business skills. These included Typing I & II, Shorthand I & II, general business, office practice, consumer math, consumer economics, business law, office aid and Bookkeeping I & II. Bookkeeping II was offered this year for the first time.

Six senior girls attended Umpqua Community College in the afternoon. They developed their skills and learned to operate different office machines.

"Try following the notes would ya! Put a little hair on it!" These and other comments can be heard by anyone passing the choir room.

Such songs as "Domine File Unigente" or something on the lighter side, as "Gossip Gossip" were learned.

An addition to the choral department this year was the newly formed voice class for those wishing to develop their voices further.

The choral department began its performance year with a November 7th concert. Other concerts were at Christmas and March 13.

The a cappella choir attended the Umpqua Valley League Concert Festival in February. A new experience for the A cappella choir this year was an invitation from Portland's Lloyd's Center to perform a Christmas concert on the night of December 11.

Drama Class Added

A fantasy movie, produced by the drama students, was the class' crowning achievement. As drama was a new class this year, the students had very little equipment to work with, but they managed to put together this movie. The film, which was of the underground type, was a daydream experience of a classroom full of students, each having his own private day dream about what he would rather be doing than sitting in class.

An extra curricular play entitled "Our Gal Sal or The Warthog Goes to College" was written and directed by Counselor David Obert. The leading characters were played by Patsy Ledbetter, Randy Chase, Mike Hanscomb, Allen Edwards and Jim Cole.

Changes included the remodeling of a janitorial and maintenance building east of the cafeteria for a Crafts Resource Center. Also, drivers ed became an accredited course.

Fifteen seniors attended auto mechanics, forestry, or business secretary courses at Umpqua Community College. This is the second year that such an opportunity has been available.

Language Arts Seek Free Expression

English classes had a "Confrontation With Truth" through the film enrichment program. Some of the films viewed were, "The Robe," "A Song in My Heart" and "Lust for Life."

Students learned to express themselves by writing a good paragraph, then progressed to theme writing. One random topic was, "If you had the choice would you marry a famous person or a doctor? Why?" Seniors undertook the study of Shakespeare.

Speech class studied one another's character through oral interpretation or "group therapy."

Other classes in the English Department, headed by Miss Laura Grubbs, were; developmental reading, Spanish and language arts.

Math, A Mystery

"Hey, what'd you get for number six?"

"I think a rational number is closed under multiplication . . . but I'm not sure . . . I guess we'd better ask."

"What'd he say the assignment was?"

Approximately one-half of the student body struggled through the mysteries of several different mathematics classes as instructors Frank Rose and Bill Aarnio battled to explain such things as the Pathagorean theorem and the axiom of inequality.

Courses offered in the mathematics department included general math, Algebra I, geometry, Algebra II, and trigonometry.

DHS Added Courses

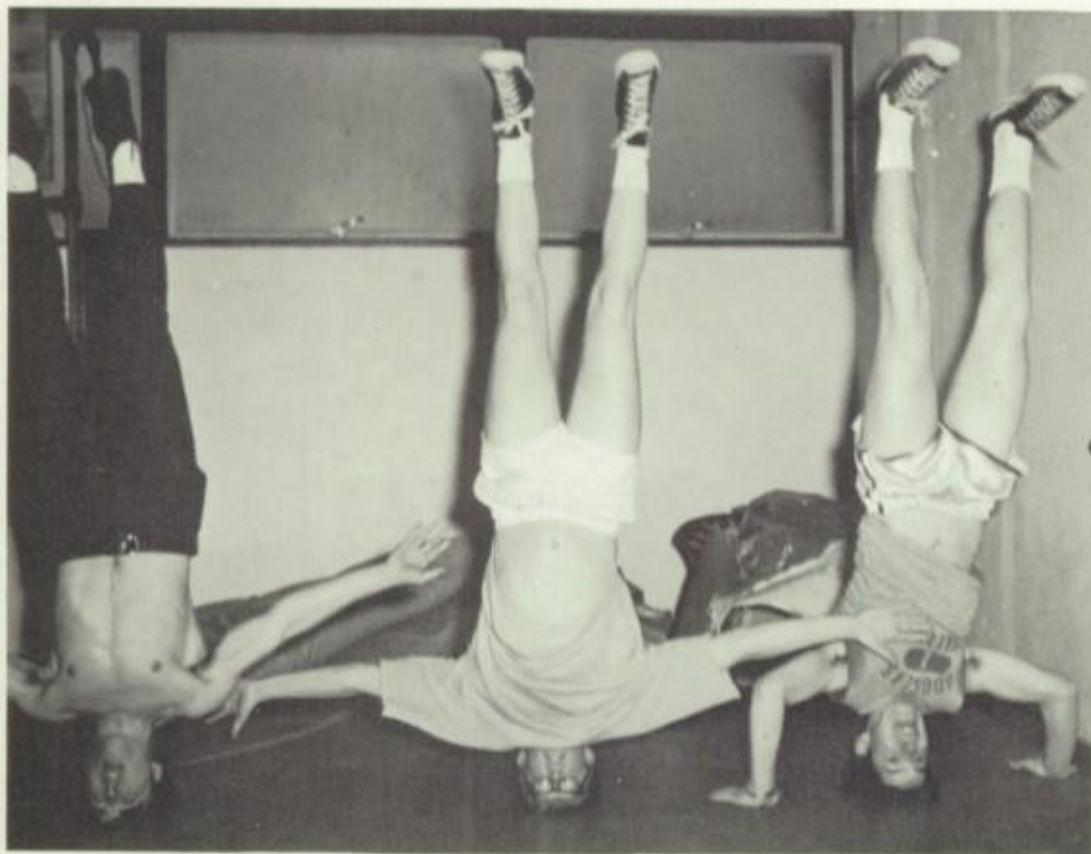

Several new work-study areas were added to the curriculum this year and were open to students during their study halls. The seminar area was converted into an English-Social Studies Resource Center and a typing area. A Crafts Resource area was also added at the east end of the campus.

Practical experience was gained as several girls participated in a work-study program involving receptionist and teacher's aide positions in offices and schools in the Winston-Dillard area.

SENIOR DIXIE ROSS, receptionist at Kash's Studio in Winston, wrote a receipt for a picture order.

Co-Education Experienced In Dancing

ATTEMPTING TO TEST their coordination and balance were Bruce Ellis, Bill Pack and Mike St. Clair.

Highlighting the year for freshmen and sophomore P.E. students was a unit in folk dancing, including such favorites as "Skip to My Lou," "Road to the Isles" and "Green-sleeves."

Basketball and volleyball proficiency was attained by much practice and improvement was measured by various "skill tests."

Weight training was another important aspect of the physical education program. Besides class time, weight training was offered in the mornings before school.

An interpretive study in modern dance was experienced by girls' advanced P.E. classes.

Rounding out the total physical education program were such additional activities as field hockey, badminton, shuffleboard, table tennis and archery.

BEV SHELDON, DEBBIE Walker, Debbie Hansen and Kathy Kimball portray their idea of "Terror in the Night."

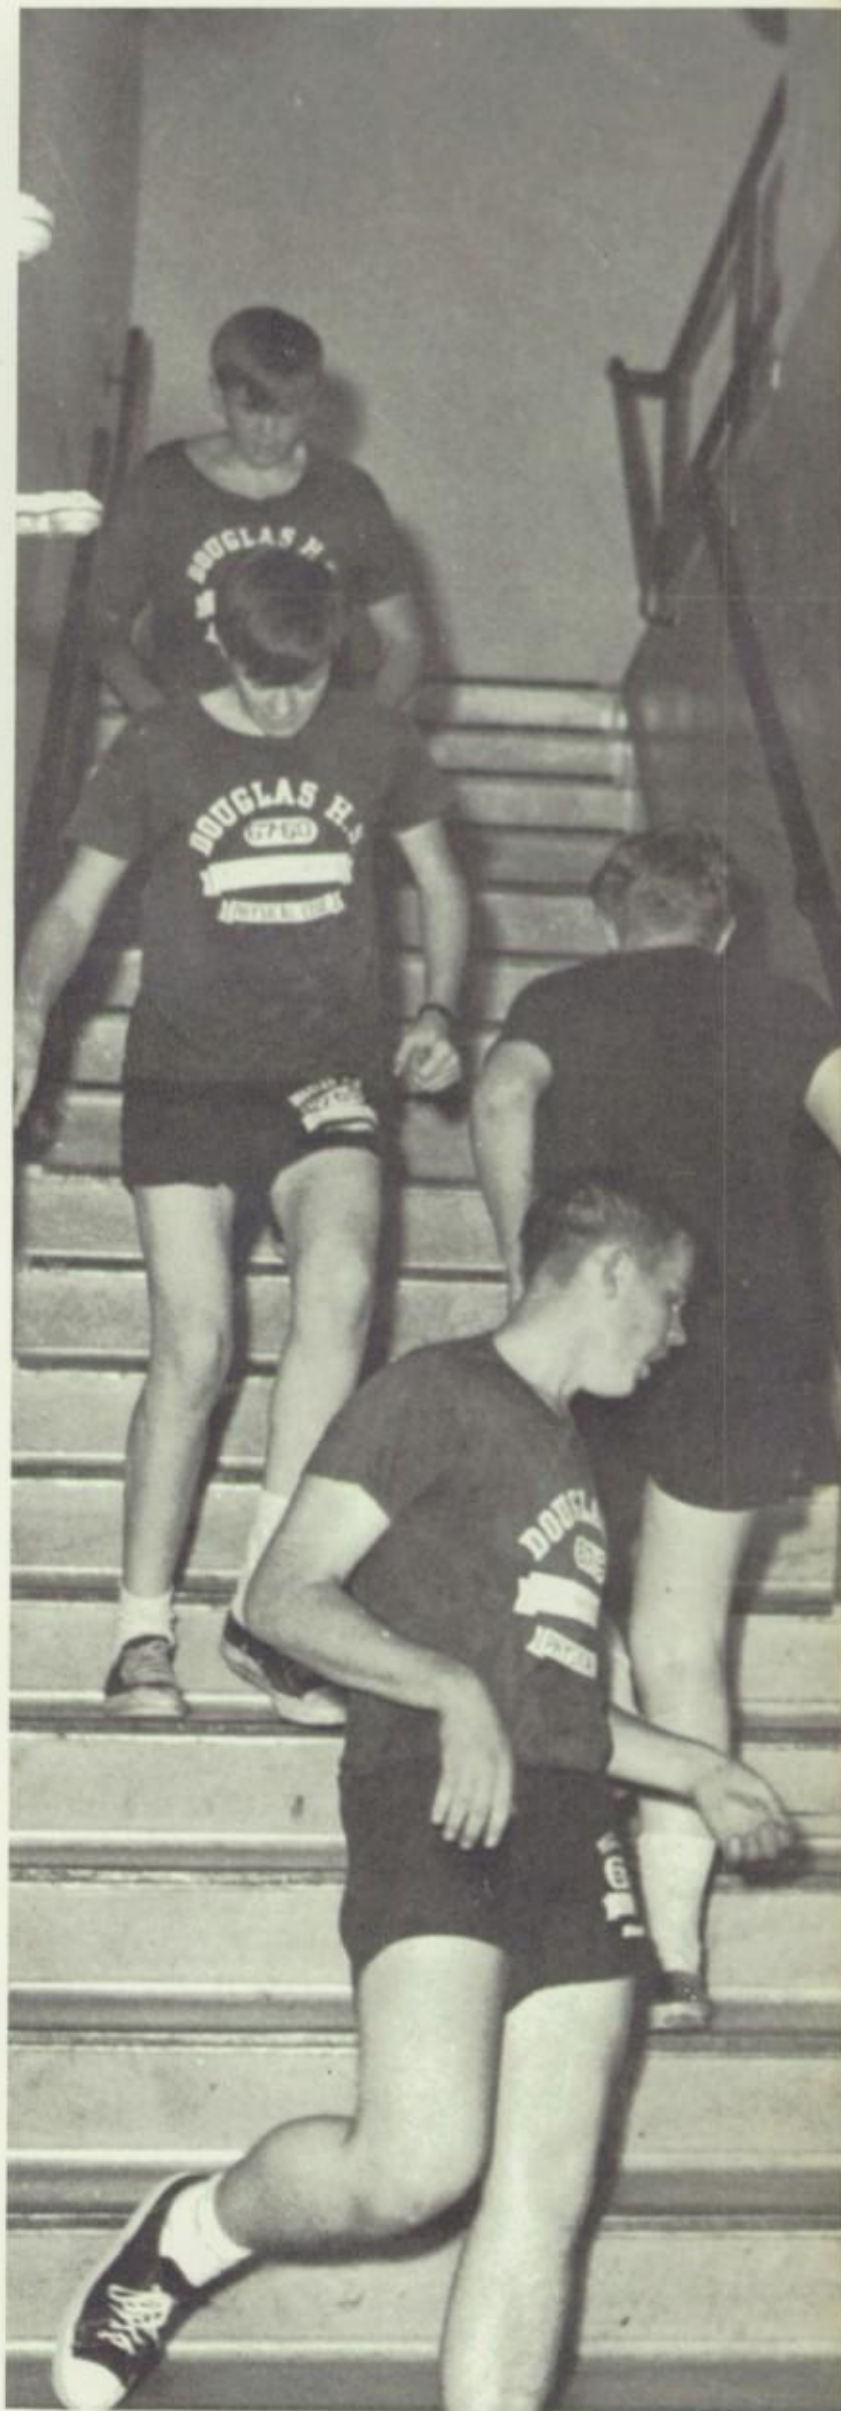

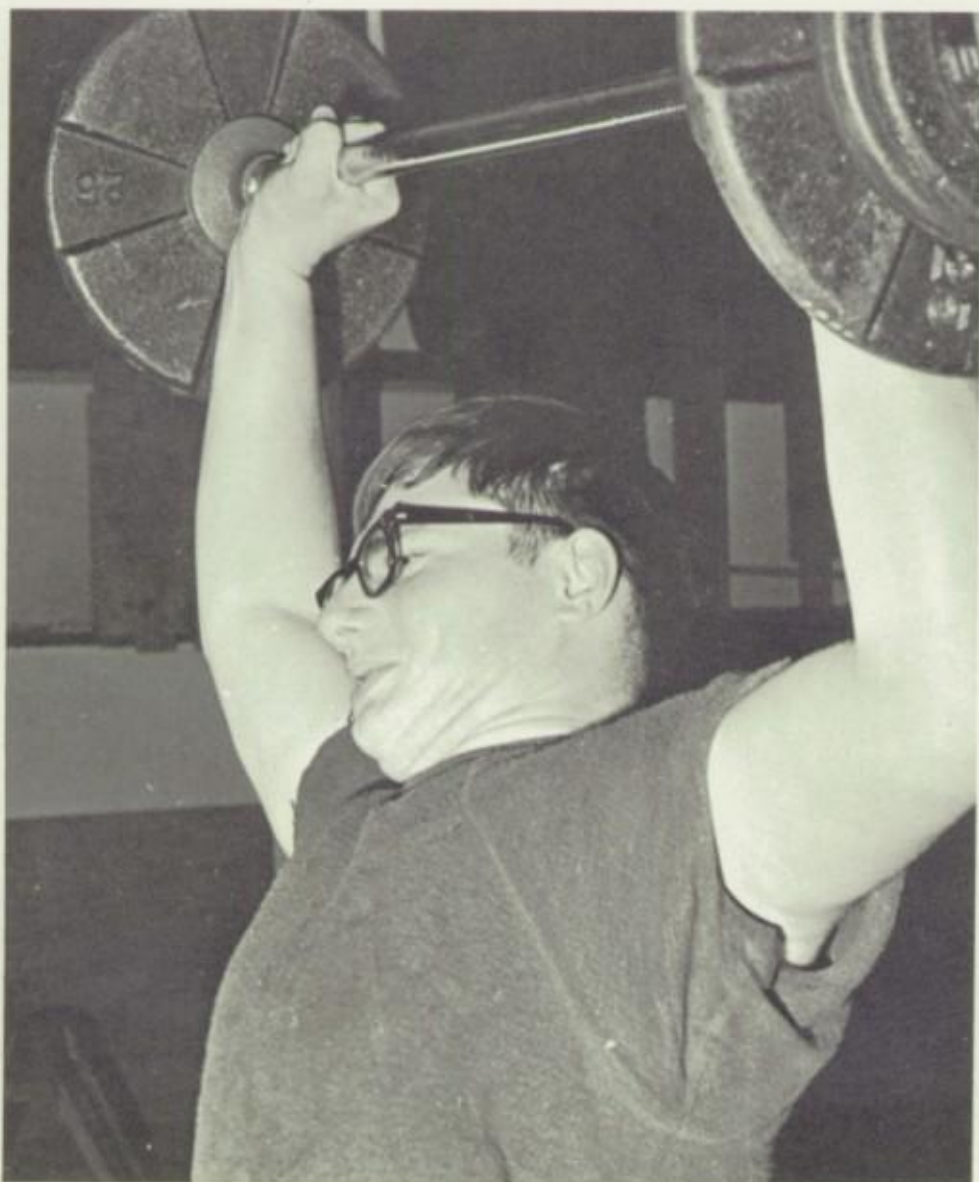

MADELINE LAPP

DUANE WAKEFIELD

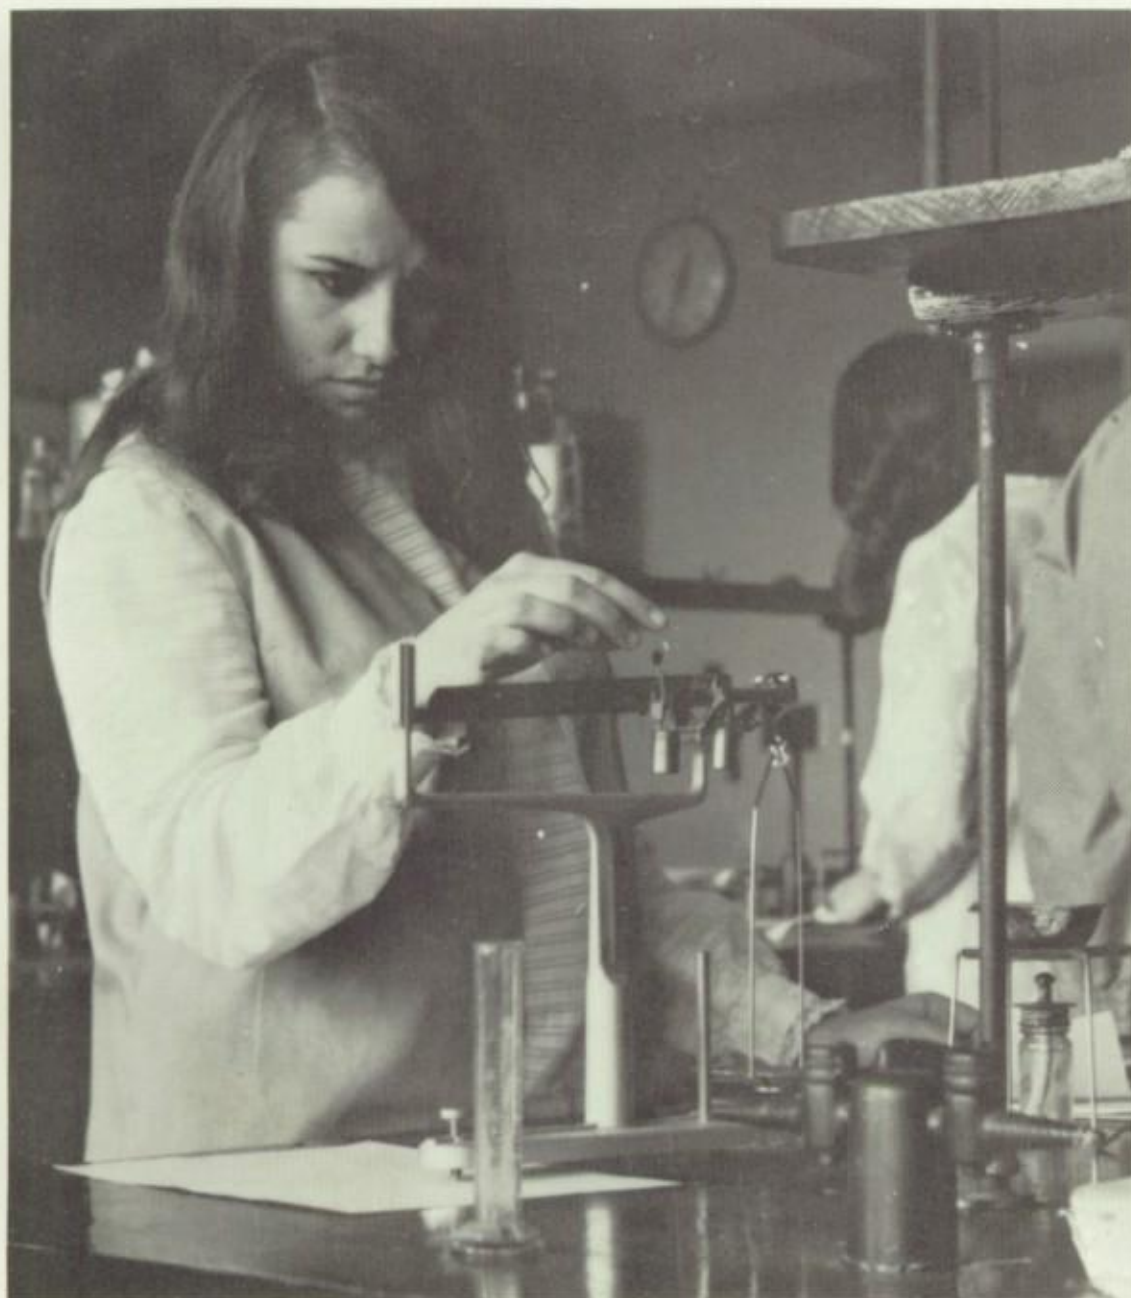

INSTRUCTOR MADELINE LAPP gave constructive criticism as Karen Johnson attempted a free throw. Basic skills of basketball were learned by freshman girls.

MARK GORDON, FRESHMAN, strained to press 115 pounds. Weight training was included in the physical education program.

CURT VIE, MARK Sanders, Ken Melson and Wendall Robinson built their muscles by "running the stairs."

Facts Uncovered by Experimentation

"Yech! What an awful smell."
"Poor little worm. I just can't slice him up the middle."
"Let's see . . . is this the dorsal or the ventral side?"

Biology I students underwent the memorable experience of dissecting their first organism . . . a worm.

Climaxing Biology II was a pond-study, in which knowledge gained in the study of invertebrate zoology was applied.

Other courses available to DHS students were introductory physical science, CHEM study, and physics. In these classes, the students received laboratory oriented introduction to the different scientific principles, which served to give him the chance to use his own reason and "discover" many scientific ideas for himself.

WONNIA MONROE, PHYSICAL science student, carefully weighs a chemical on a centimeter balance before adding it to a solution.

WHILE STUDYING ZOOLOGY, Freshman Biology I students Tim Cornell and Rick Black laboriously dissected a Cambarus sp. (crayfish).

READING OVER THE instructions, Kathy Hostetler and Delores Gibson determined the next step in a physical science experiment.

Seniors "Play World"

"Playing world," a simulation, was the final study of American problems classes, a required course for seniors.

Juniors studied the United States from colonization to modern time, while world history, required of Sophomores, studied ancient civilizations and cultures.

In social living classes, freshmen discussed the problems of living in today's modern society.

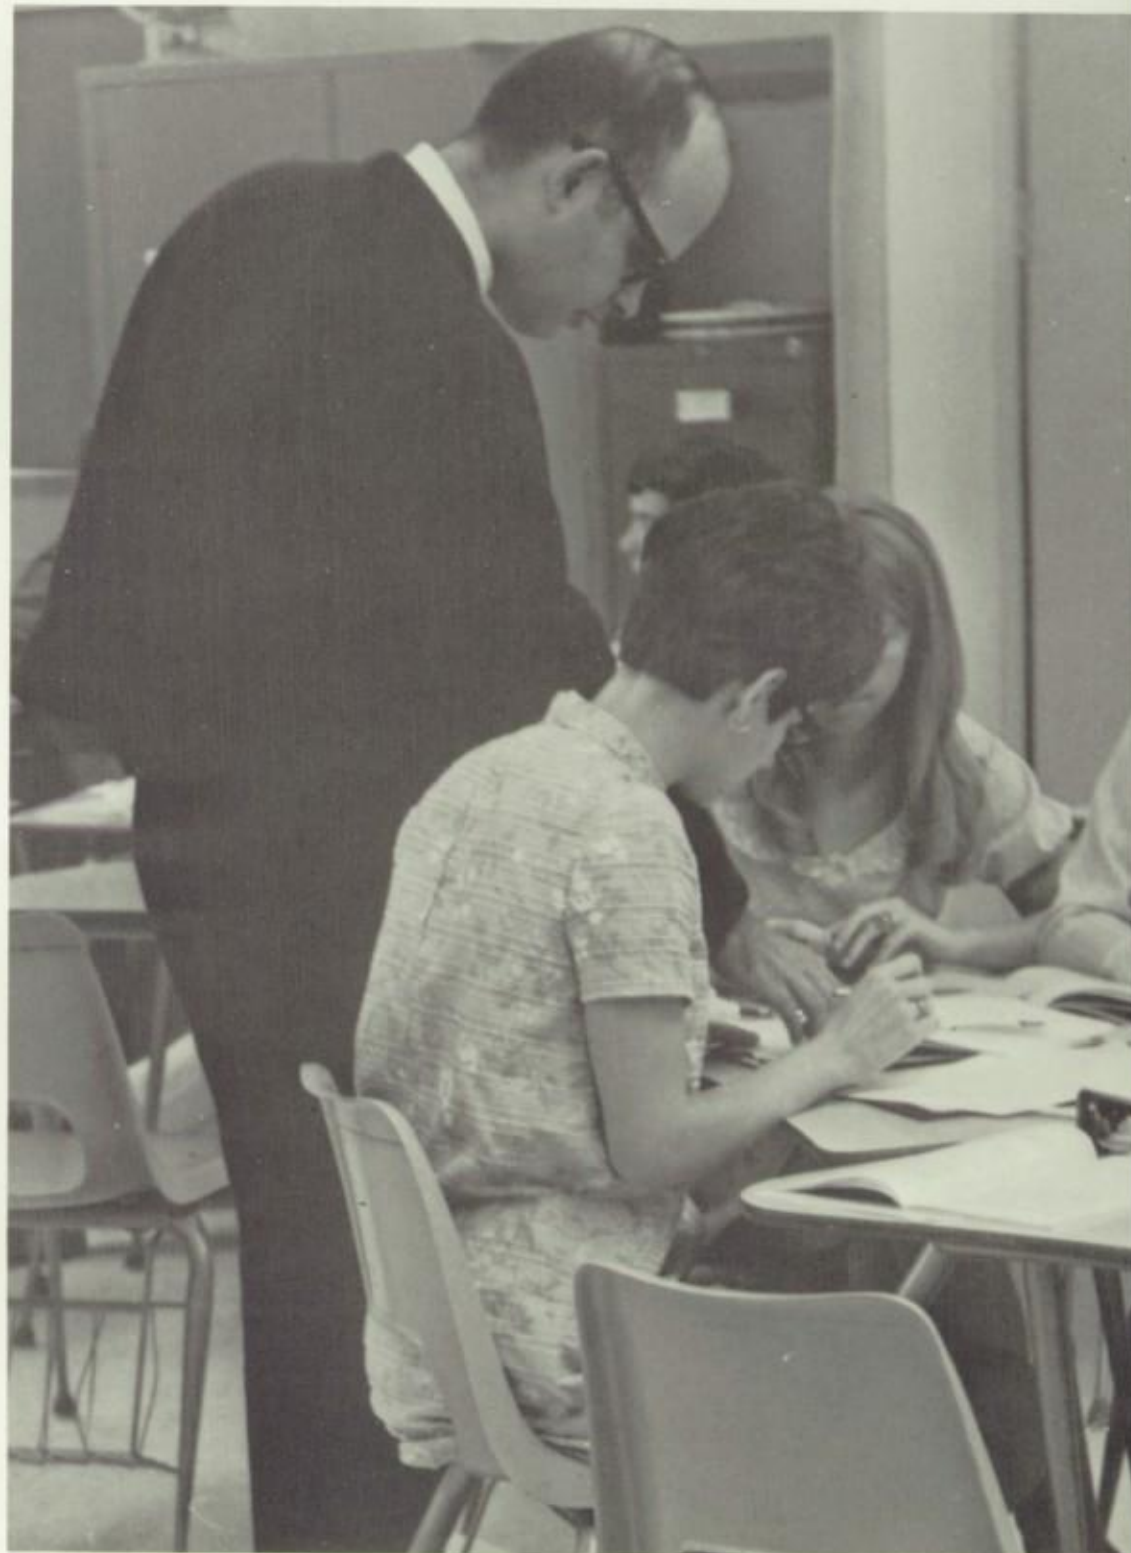

International relations class discussed current events in preparation for the annual spring conference held in Eugene.

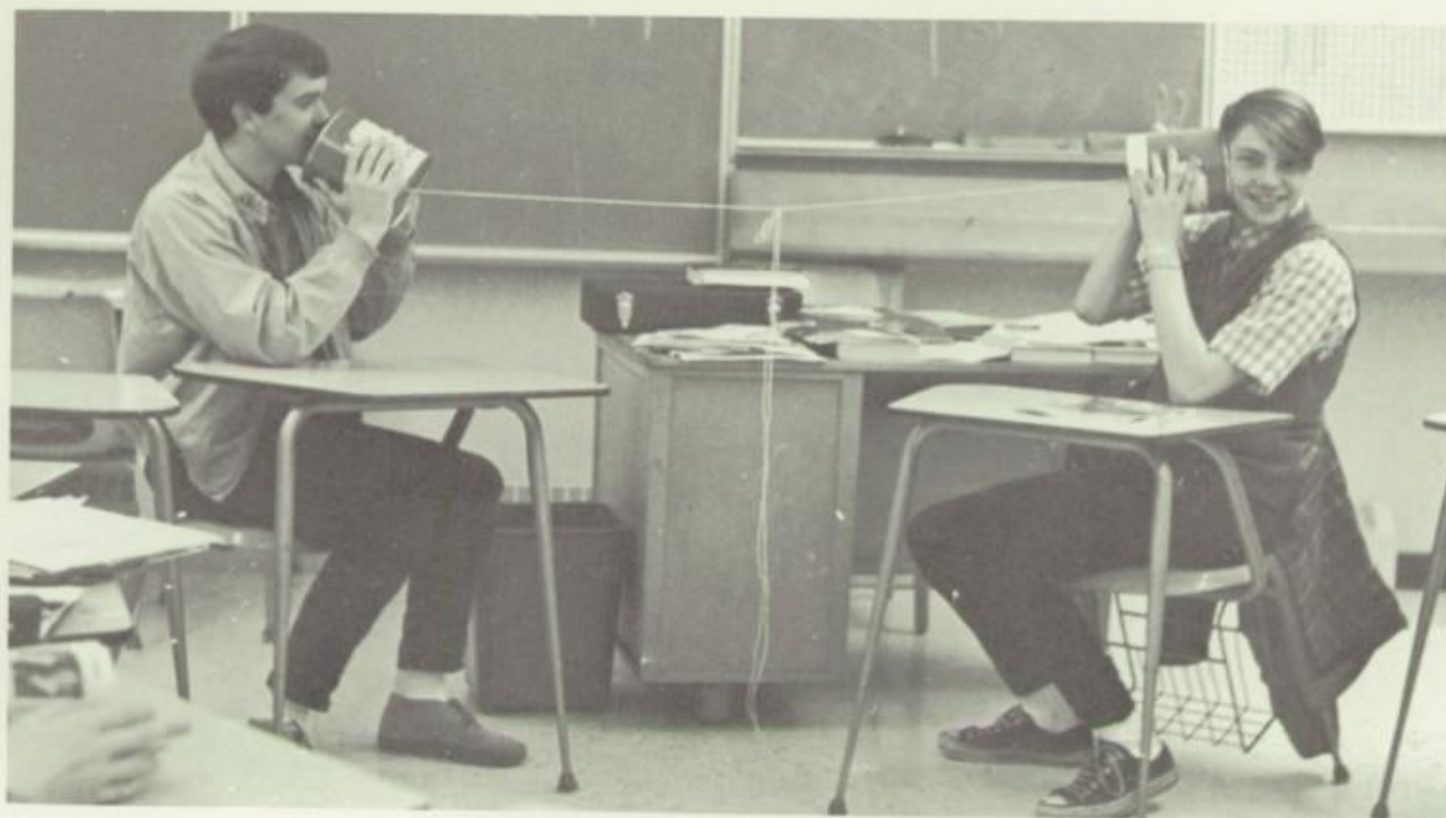

Several speakers, including AFS students from schools around the state, were hosted by the social studies department.

SIMULATION DIRECTOR ED Lindell advised Kay Miller, Wanda Waters citizens of "Trailma Nail," of their validator standing.

Staff Faced Dilemma

Learning how to "operate in the darkroom" was a major achievement for several of the TROJAN staff. Everyone had a part in copy writing, headline fitting, drawing layouts, proofreading and caption writing.

Selling ads and annuals proved a problem for the large TROJAN staff, consisting of Claudia Ching, editor-in-chief, Christi Meyer, academic section editor, Janet Davidson, activities section editor, Reca Osborne, sports editor, Bonnie Powell, photographer, Walter Osborne, sports consultant, Anne Householder, business manager and their advisor, William Lapp. However, they succeeded in raising the $2700 needed to finance the TROJAN and produce a 170 page book, the largest in Douglas' history. Included in these 170 pages were a 14 page student life section. Two of these pages were featured in color.

The cover and division pages were student designed by Senior Nicki Harris.

WHILE TYPING, RON Bates briefed co-reporter Steve Wold on a sports assignment.

A special 16-page issue on the 1968 Homecoming activities, and a 12-page issue on the much publicized presidential elections, were just a few of the special tasks taken on by the 1968-69 TROY TIMES staff.

8-page papers were consistently run off weekly and in some cases a series of articles were published. Three such articles were on the subject of dropouts. Also printed was a contradictory article to the editor submitted by "The Group" concerning the effect of the juke box on students.

The staff consisted of 15 members with Terry Woodall and Joan Koelle sharing the position of editor.

JON HUGHLEY OPERATED the new folding machine. This folding machine saved the staff a hour of work every week.

PERFORMING THE THANKLESS task of feeding about 200 students each day were Bernice Thompson, Editha Deal, and Juanita Linville.

BERNICE THOMPSON, COOK at Douglas for six years, finished the final course of a balanced meal as she removed a pan of cornbread from the oven.

Keep It Clean!

Each school day, many people whose presence is barely noticed, toil away endlessly.

For example, the cooks must appear at the school each morning at seven o'clock in order to prepare a seemingly "simple" noontime meal. Each busdriver must clean up the messes made from such things as spitball fights. The janitors work far into the night in the endless battle of making the school presentable for the next day.

Next time you complain about your lunch, throw gum on the floor, or heckle your busdriver, stop and think—if it weren't for the long-suffering perseverance of each of these people you might be without a cafeteria, have a messy campus and be "hoofing it" to school and home again every day.

A decorative graphic on the right side of the page, consisting of a grid of black and white squares. The squares are arranged in a pattern that resembles a staircase or a series of steps, with some squares missing, creating a fragmented, geometric look. The squares are of varying sizes and are positioned along the right edge of the page.

ACTIVITIES

Two-Party System Introduced At D.H.S.

ASB PRESIDENT ED Robertson solemnly asked the council for comments on the evaluation report concerning boy cheerleaders.

1969 brought changes in the powers of student council and the homeroom representatives. The newly enforced constitution, drafted the year before, gave representatives a greater voice. As in accordance with the new constitution, all school clubs had to submit a charter that would pass the approval of both houses.

During the year the student council conducted a March of Dimes Drive and had a pay telephone installed in the lobby. They also passed a motion to recognize foreign students by placing the student's picture and native flag in the lower hall.

Members of the executive council included President Ed Robertson, Vice-President Don Post, Secretary Peggy Hooten, Treasurer Claudia Ching, and Business Manager Jeanette Gardner.

JEANETTE GARDNER, JANIS Gubser and Randy Chase read the minutes of the previous meeting carefully for errors.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS listened attentively to the report given by Advisor Jim Wells concerning the ASB elections.

Tradition Retained

Homecoming activities were christened this year by building the pile on the same night as it was to be burned. Following this, a chili feed was held, with live entertainment from the U. of O. Then the students joined in several games of push ball on the football field. The cheerleaders led yells while the students rallied around the bonfire. Climaxing the evening was a parking lot dance with music provided by the Midnight Edition.

Friday was designated as "color day" and the students were arrayed in shades of red and gray. Friday evening the Trojans scored their third victory of the season. Kris Johnson and her escort, Terry Woodall, were crowned at half time of the game.

Learning a hand routine from the rally members and performing it at home games was a new task taken on by the Douglas High Pep Club.

The uniforms worn by the Pep Club members were red and white houndstooth check wool skirts with red sweaters, white knee socks and red shoes.

Week after week members of the Pep Club took time after school to make signs encouraging DHS sportsmen, letting them know that the student body was supporting them. Some examples of these signs were "Skin the Cats" and "stomp Glide." These were posted during homecoming week when the opposing team was the Glide Wildcats.

Miss Shirley Schoenborn served as advisor to Pep Club while sophomore Debbie Parret took the responsibility of president. The Pep Club had a membership of 12.

BOOKIES MEMBERS INCLUDED Craig Nuestal, Linda Kimberling, Steve Wold, advisor Dave Obert, Mildred Daughtery, Mary Good, Susan Loerts, and Erleen Jones.

Bookies Founded

"To gain insight into the world of literature by reading and discussing novels" was the main purpose of the newly formed Bookies Club.

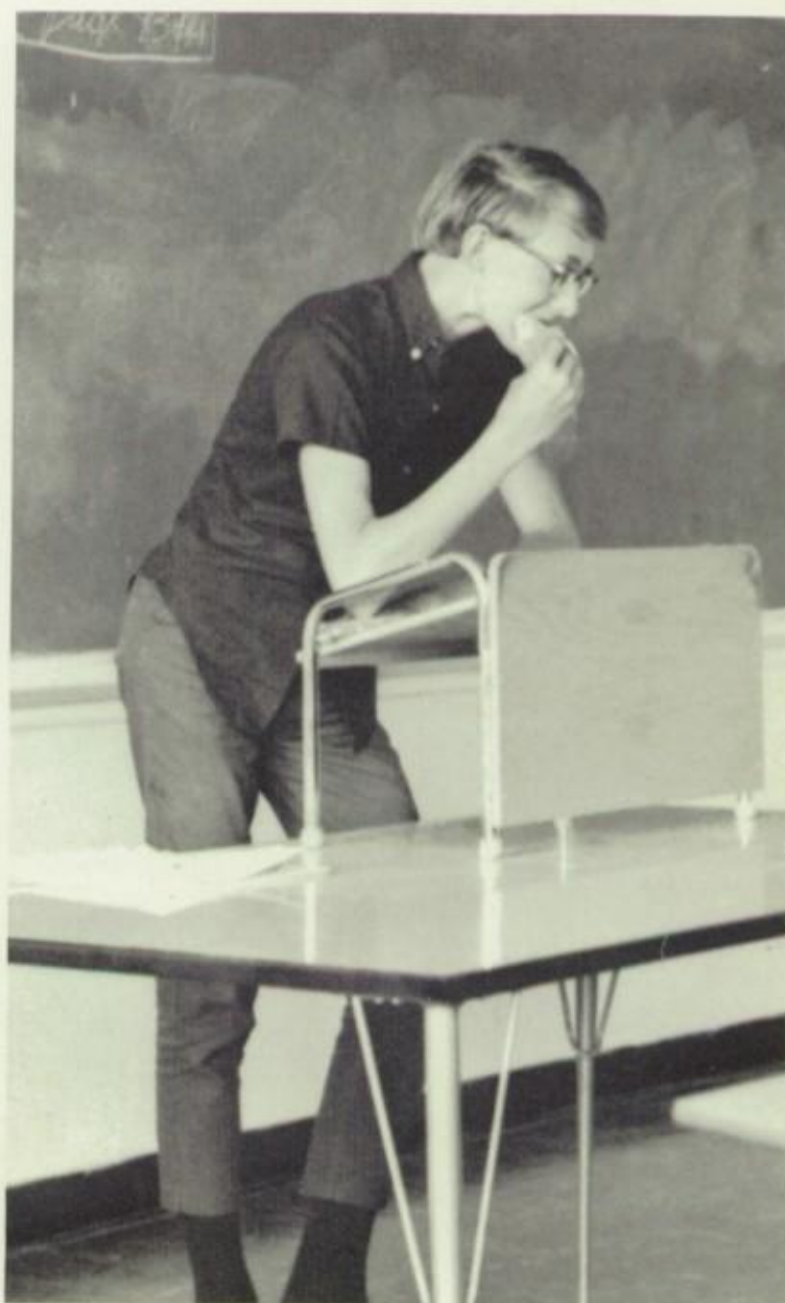

Formed in the middle of the school year the Bookies Club consisted of a group of DHS students who met and discussed books that they had previously read. Some of the books read were, Lord of the Flies written by William Golding and Animal Farm by George Orwell.

Officers of the Bookies Club were: Randy Chase, president; Mildred Daughtery, vice-president; Chris Baughman, secretary; and Steve Wold, treasurer.

INFORMAL DISCUSSION PRECEDED the call to order by Randy Chase.

ANIMAL FARM WAS a topic of discussion led by Randy Chase as he finished his lunch during a noon meeting.

"Holiday of Love" Adorned Cafeteria

"Who ordered the cake?" This became a major concern of the Winter Formal decorating committee when the bakery couldn't confirm an order. A cake was finally delivered, but decorated in the wrong colors.

The senior class decorated the cafeteria around the theme of "Holiday of Love." Silver and gold crepe paper were used to create a false ceiling, accented by a big red ball and mistletoe and Santa Claus candles were used as table center pieces.

Susan Webber and Ken Collyer were chosen king and queen by a vote of the student body. Other members of the court were Dienna Parret and Ed Robertson, Nancy Ellis and Mike Cornell, Debbie Parret and Mark Dwight and Patty Matthews and Skip Davidson.

Music for the 46 couples present was provided by the "Young Delight."

WINTER FORMAL COURT included: Seniors, Susan Webber and Ed Robertson, Dienna Parret and Ken Collyer; Juniors, Nancy Ellis and Mike Cornell; Sophomores, Debbie Parret and Mark Dwight; and Freshmen, Patty Matthews and Skip Davidson.

“We’re with you all the way, Hey!” The Douglas High School varsity rally led an enthusiastic bunch of supporters through a school spirited year.

The varsity squad consisted of six girls and later in the year two boys. Besides boosting the overall school spirit, the rally organized pep assemblies, encouraged students to attend away and home games, attended wrestling and track meets and attended baseball games.

For the football season the varsity rally outfits were accented with black on the traditional crimson and gray. Basketball uniforms were entirely red and white, which was a variation of the usual.

FTA'ers Explored Field of Education

April is known as "career month" for all Future Teachers of America. Meeting Oregon Governor Tom McCall and visiting the State's Blind and Deaf Schools in April highlighted the year. Participants also visited the Oregon Indian School and talked to Representative Bill Markham from Riddle after a brief visit to the Senate and House of Representatives.

For the first time in the history of Region II a fall conference was held. Douglas hosted the event which included many varied speakers.

Sophomore Claire Chasm attended the 1969 Youth Conference on Teaching at Southern Oregon College in Ashland. She was granted a partial scholarship from the District Teachers Association. 1968 YCOT participants were Elaine Hedrick, Vicki Fullerton, Linda Kimberling and Recca Osborne.

Cancelled postage stamps were collected to supply high protein food to needy children the world over. One dollar's worth of cancelled stamps provided 300 pounds of food.

Junior Recca Osborne, elected State Treasurer in November, served as Douglas's FTA president. Other cabinet members included Elaine Hedrick, vice-president; Penny Akers, secretary; Linda Kimberling, treasurer; Doris Adams, historian and Terry Woodall, parliamentarian.

STATE FTA TREASURER Recca Osborne discussed the state paper, TEACHING TRAILS, with Future Teachers. Recca was a junior.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF America met with State Representative Bill Markham of Riddle to discuss legislative features. Front Row: Representative Markham, Chris Lowther, Janis Palmrose, Doris Adams, Pennie Akers, Becky Akers, Linda Kimberling and Advisor Laura Grubbs. Back Row: Claire Chasm, Recca Osborne, Marvin Puckett, Merlin Dicki, James Hendrix and Tom Lowther.

Meetings that included food seemed to please Elaine Hedrick and Jeanette Arthur.

Sewing Talent Used

Egg carton curtains? Sounds rather unusual, but this seemed to be the main project of Douglas High's Future Homemakers of America. Egg Cartons were collected, fixed in such a way that they would serve as curtains and when completed they were hung in Douglas' kitchen to brighten up the interior.

Officers of the 1968-69 FHS Club were: Jeanette Arthur, president; Arletta DeWolf, vice-president; and Elaine Hedrick, secretary-treasurer.

Another project of the Future Homemakers of America was the selling of Favorite Recipe Cook Books which was a combination of favorite recipes of home economic teachers throughout the United States.

Advisor for the FHA Club, Lenore Lewis, formed the club in 1966 to provide interested girls with home-making activities other than that experienced in school and home.

The club consisted of approximately 12 members and meetings were held during the activity periods.

Arletta DeWolf and Connie Frame lined up for helpings of the main business at their noon meeting.

Hayakawa Highlighted IRC Convention

What is revolution? When can a revolution be termed as successful? What is the difference between rebellion and revolution? These were just a few questions discussed in preparation for the spring conference of the International Relations Club which was based around the theme of "Revolution in the Twentieth Century."

To help pay for the overnight stay in Eugene while the spring conference was in session, the IRL Club had various money making projects throughout the year which included a bottle drive and bake food sale.

Senior Gary Deal, president of the International Relations Club held the bulk of the responsibility with Edward Lindell, advisor, in seeing that these funds were raised.

A fall conference was attended by IRL members at the University of Oregon also in preparation for the spring conference that was held in April.

USING HER HANDS to express an opinion on revolution in the 20th century is junior Debbie Dean.

IRL VICE-PRESIDENT TIM Dowdy volunteered to help at the donut sale.

IRL MEMBERS WHO attended the spring conference in Eugene April 5-6 were: Front Row: Kay Miller, Claudia Ching, Janet Davidson, Recca Osborne. Second Row: Gary

TWO SISTERS FROM Denmark demonstrated a Danish folk dance.

Jose' Joins Ranks

The American Field Service Club, under the leadership of Senior Terry Woodall, spent the majority of the year earning $750 for Douglas' third AFS student. Douglas' second exchange student, José Apraiz, a citizen of Spain, spent the school year with the Roy Woodall family of Dillard. When asked what he liked in the way of American food, José said, "I like hamburgers."

A magazine sale netted the club about $463. "Fuzzies", snoopy dogs, class buttons and a soc hop were used to encourage the student body to participate.

At the conclusion of the magazine sale, planning began for the AFS talent show in March. AFS students from all over Oregon were invited to participate. The theme of the show was, "It's A Small World."

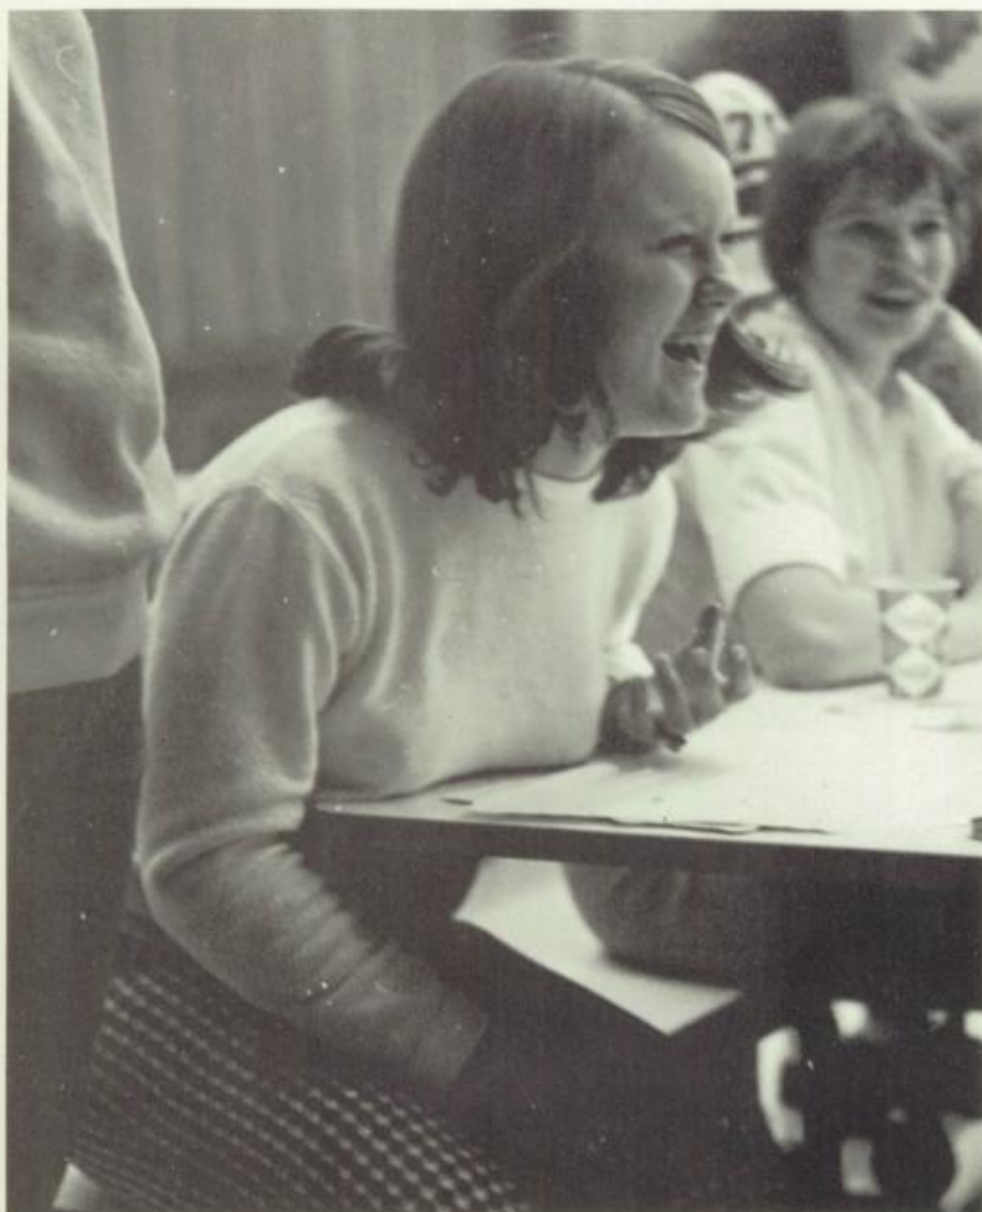

A vital part of the AFS program was the adult AFS chapter. These interested parents provoked interest in the community, helped organize projects and interviewed possible families for the next year's student.

JOSE' AND HIS American Father, Roy Woodall, enjoyed refreshments at an AFS party.

Girls Bedecked Halls

Creating a more Christmas spirit was accomplished by decorating the halls of DHS for the 1968 Christmas Season. This was one of the special jobs taken on by Douglas High's largest club, Girls League.

Other projects included the Miss Merry Christmas Food drive, a Sweetheart's Dance with a king and queen of hearts, a heart fund drive and Preference Dance.

Joan Koelle, president, presided over all meetings at which there was a variety of entertainment. The meeting ranged from a talk given by a local juvenile officer to a comical "Going Steady Game," patterned after television's "Newlywed Game."

ICC Discusses Activity Conflicts

ICC or Inner Club Council consisted of all Douglas High club presidents or their representatives. ICC was newly organized by the student council.

The purpose of ICC was to eliminate activity conflicts. Common problems were discussed so that the various clubs could better serve the student body.

During their meetings they spent time evaluating club goals and each club's membership. More student involvement was stressed.

According to Jim Wells, advisor, ICC will take on a more active role in building up the clubs.

DRILL TEAM PRESIDENT Dienna Parret suggested an idea as Debbie Parret and Recca Osborne listened appraisingly.

ICC MEMBERS TERRY Woodall, Randy Chase, Joan Koelle, Jeanette Aurthur, Gary Deal, Bruce Ellis, Debbie Parret, Recca Osborne and advisor Jim Wells gave deep thought to the problem of involving more Douglas High students in clubs.

Four Tapped

Scholarship, leadership, character and service were the basis for which Kay Miller, Claudia Ching, Kathy Mincher and Jan Taylor, all junior girls, were selected to be initiates of the National Honor Society. Senior NHS members performed the tapping ceremony.

The annual initiating banquet was held at the Indian Room on March 25 in honor of the new members. Newly tapped members from all Umpqua Valley League schools attended. The ceremony involved lighting a candle and receiving a pin and membership card.

The National Honor Society of Douglas High School, including new and old members, had a roll call of 10 juniors and seniors.

CLAUDIA CHING SAVORED a bite of the NHS dinner in the Umpqua Hotel.

AFTER LIGHTING HER candle Jan Taylor became an official National Honor Society member. Three other juniors were tapped.

Pastels Depicted "Summer Place"

Setting the mood for the annual girl-ask-boy Preference Ball were decorations following the theme of "A Summer Place." Pastel colors carried out the theme, and the tables were set with a single candle in a glass, surrounded by flowers and paper grass.

Queen Kathleen Cornell and King Jerry Daugherty were crowned as the most preferred couple during intermission.

An extra touch of excitement was added to the evening as a table caught fire.

"The Young Delight" provided music for the dance, which was held in the school cafeteria.

Trophies Won For Precision Drills

Throughout the summer and school year, the 40 member drill team, led by Dienna Parret, participated in numerous parades and won trophies at the Veterans Day Parade and Rodeo Parade in Roseburg, Fleet Days in Reedsport and the Emerald Empire Roundup in Eugene. Some of the formations that they formed while marching were the four-square, turn about, divided ranks, obliques and cross over.

The "Special Drill Team," an appendage of the Drill Team, consisted of 12 girls. These girls performed a dance routine at Douglas' open house in April.

The Troyettes sponsored a Hobo Hop and cake sale to enable some of the drill team members to attend the Lewis and Clark Drill Clinic during the summer.

Prom Perceived As "Breezy" Affair

The theme and decorations were "Gone With the Wind," the colors were purple, lavender and white, the Fairfax Assention entertained and the place was the Roseburg Country Club. All of these factors made the Junior-Senior Prom of 1968-69 a dance to remember.

Pillars depicting Civil War architecture were on each side of the Queen's chair with each having purple and lavender flowers twining around them. Tables were decorated with glass bowls containing a candle floating on water. The centerpieces were surrounded by flowers.

The prom court included: Queen Joan Koelle and King Don Post, Christi Meyer and R. D. Buell, Linda Foster Holloway and Mike St. Clair, Sandi Parker and Bruce Ellis and Peggy Hooten and Jose Apraiz.

The queen was presented with a dozen purple tipped roses and a crown, while the king received a cepter. Each of the four princesses was given a tiara.

Playnights—Banquet Sparked GAA Year

Mother-daughter playnights highlighted the 1968-69 year for the Girls' Athletic Association. Throughout the year initiation potlucks were held with a final awards program and banquet in late May. Douglas' girls sponsored this event with other schools present.

After beating the Oakland Oakers 13 to 4, coach Ron Swenson stated, "We hit the ball really good, we did not make as many mistakes as we did before, and it was the best game we played all season. The Trojan baseballers lost a number of games by a very close score. Aside from the bad breaks during the season, Coach Swenson remarked, "Our strongest points were our pitching and hitting."

The Trojans had a season record of 4-15 and a league record of 2-8.

Two school records were broken during the 1969 season. McDonald polevaulted thirteen feet and Heard managed fifty feet-two inches with the shotput.

CLASSES

Seniors Work Toward Graduation

Headed by Bruce Ellis, class president, the senior class worked toward their final achievement—graduation.

Chosen as the class flower were daisies. Yellow and white were the class colors. The graduation robes were crimson with gold tassels. Members of the honor society had gold honor guards.

One of the several money-making projects which was undertaken by the seniors was sponsoring the annual winter formal. The dance, held on December 21, was decorated around the theme of "Holiday of Love."

Naming just a few outstanding achievements of the class of '69 was Jeff Frame, who was the second boy in the history of Douglas High to make the A2 football 2nd team on the all star level. Also showing exceptional talent in the field of art were Tom Palmrose and Sandy Parker, who nabbed 1st and 3rd places, respectively, in a district poster contest.

114 Little Spokes Become Big Wheels

CLASS OFFICERS: RITA Liening, secretary; Candy Nye, treasurer; Duane Muetzel, vice-president; Judy Fritz, publicity manager; and Kathy Mincher, president.

"At last we're upperclassmen."

The junior class under the leadership of president Kathy Mincher, again made its main goal of the year, to come through with a successful Junior-Senior Prom. As usual, problems were met and solved. The question of who was going to help and where was the money coming from, were just two of those that had to be faced.

Throughout the year various projects were attempted to raise money. The largest project was the selling of class pins. These pins had red stones with Douglas High circling them. The year of graduation was also included.

Concessions were sold at both fall and winter sports. Again, much dedication and willingness was needed to make these sales successful. Many juniors participated.

Besides putting on a Junior-Senior Prom, the junior class contributed time to many student body activities. Among these were participation in athletic and club events.

Sophs Meet Homecoming Challenge

"Are you going to help decorate for the homecoming dance?"

"I can't, I've got drill team practice."

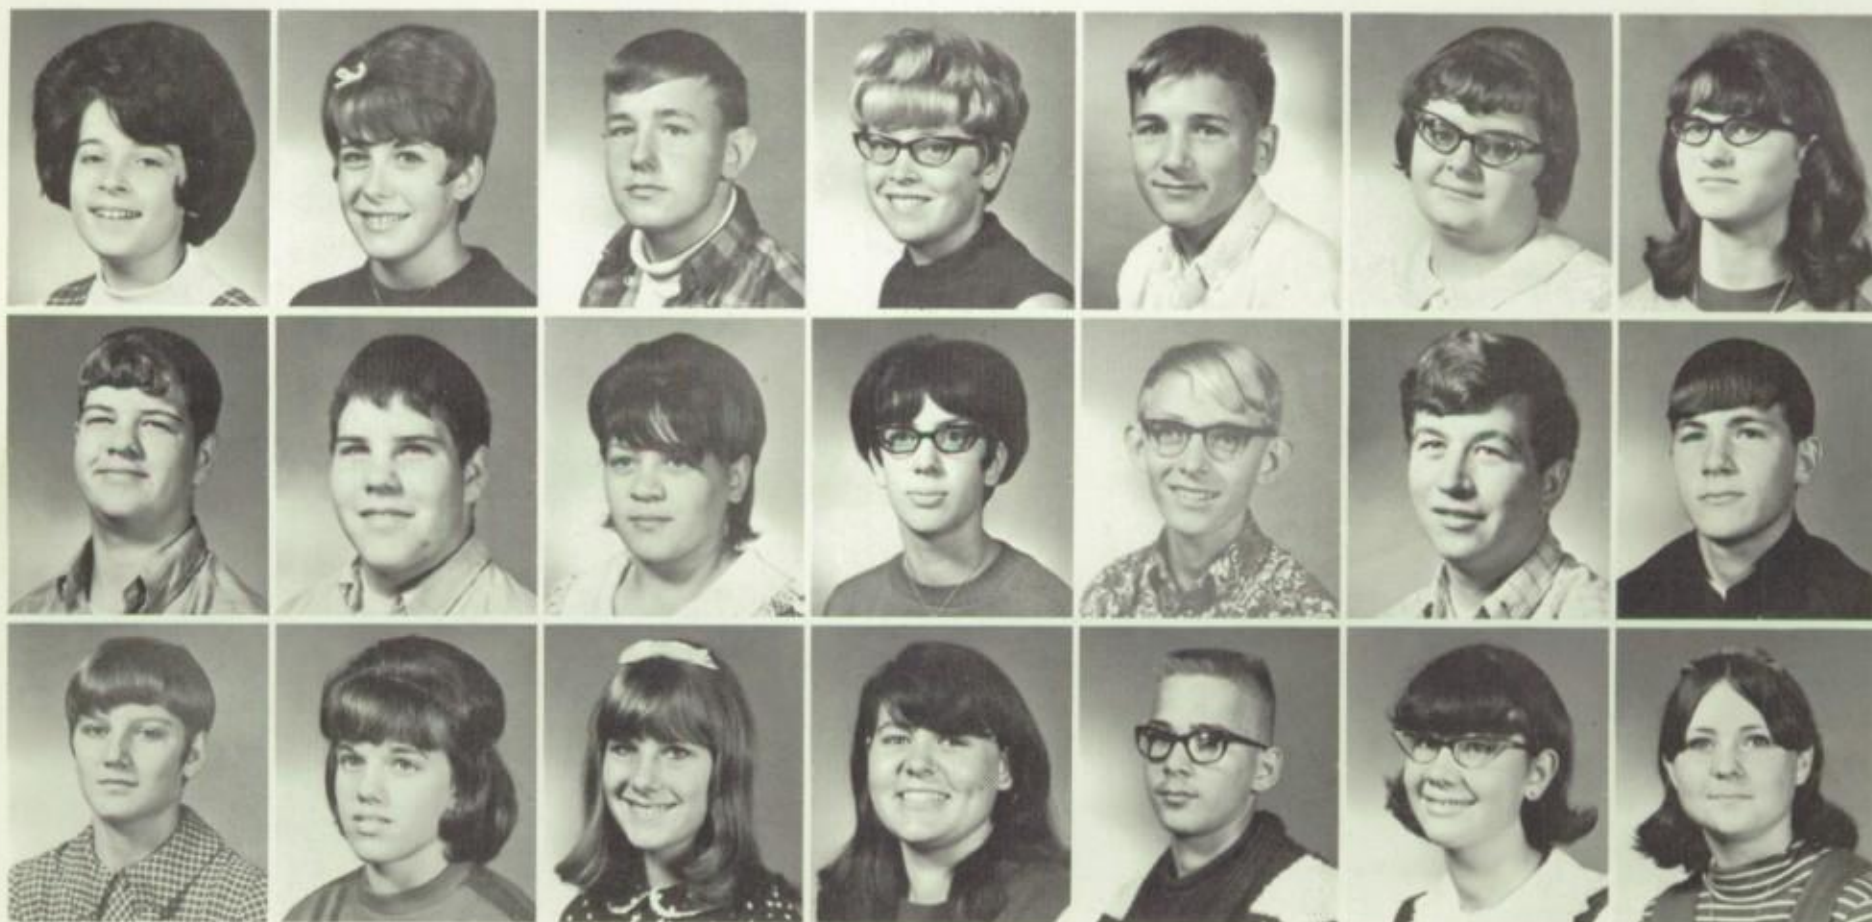

"Me either, I have cheerleader practice."

This is a typical problem that the sophomores had to overcome while carrying out their major project for the year, decorating for the annual homecoming dance. "Autumn of Our Lives" was the theme, and was carried out in fall colors.

The 146 sophomore students, led by Mark Dwight, somehow managed to find a solution to these many problems and were able to keep out of the "red."

Other officers included Erleen Jones, vice-president; Christa Baird, secretary; Mary Good, treasurer; and Ann Johnson, publicity manager.

After completing their homecoming dance obligation, the sophomores began raising money for that ever-present junior "headache," PROM!

New Frosh Help Boost School Spirit

CLASS OFFICERS: CINDY Leigh, publicity manager; Patti Garoutte, treasurer; Alice Foster, secretary; Susan Bertucci, vice-president; David Johnson, president.

Every year, no matter what else happens, the freshmen come. It is a never failing thing. This year, as usual, there was a freshman welcoming party held to help get the newcomers acquainted. Some of the class of '72 were given the honor of being introduced to the infamous "Beer Can Hill," which helped to make the whole evening a memorable event.

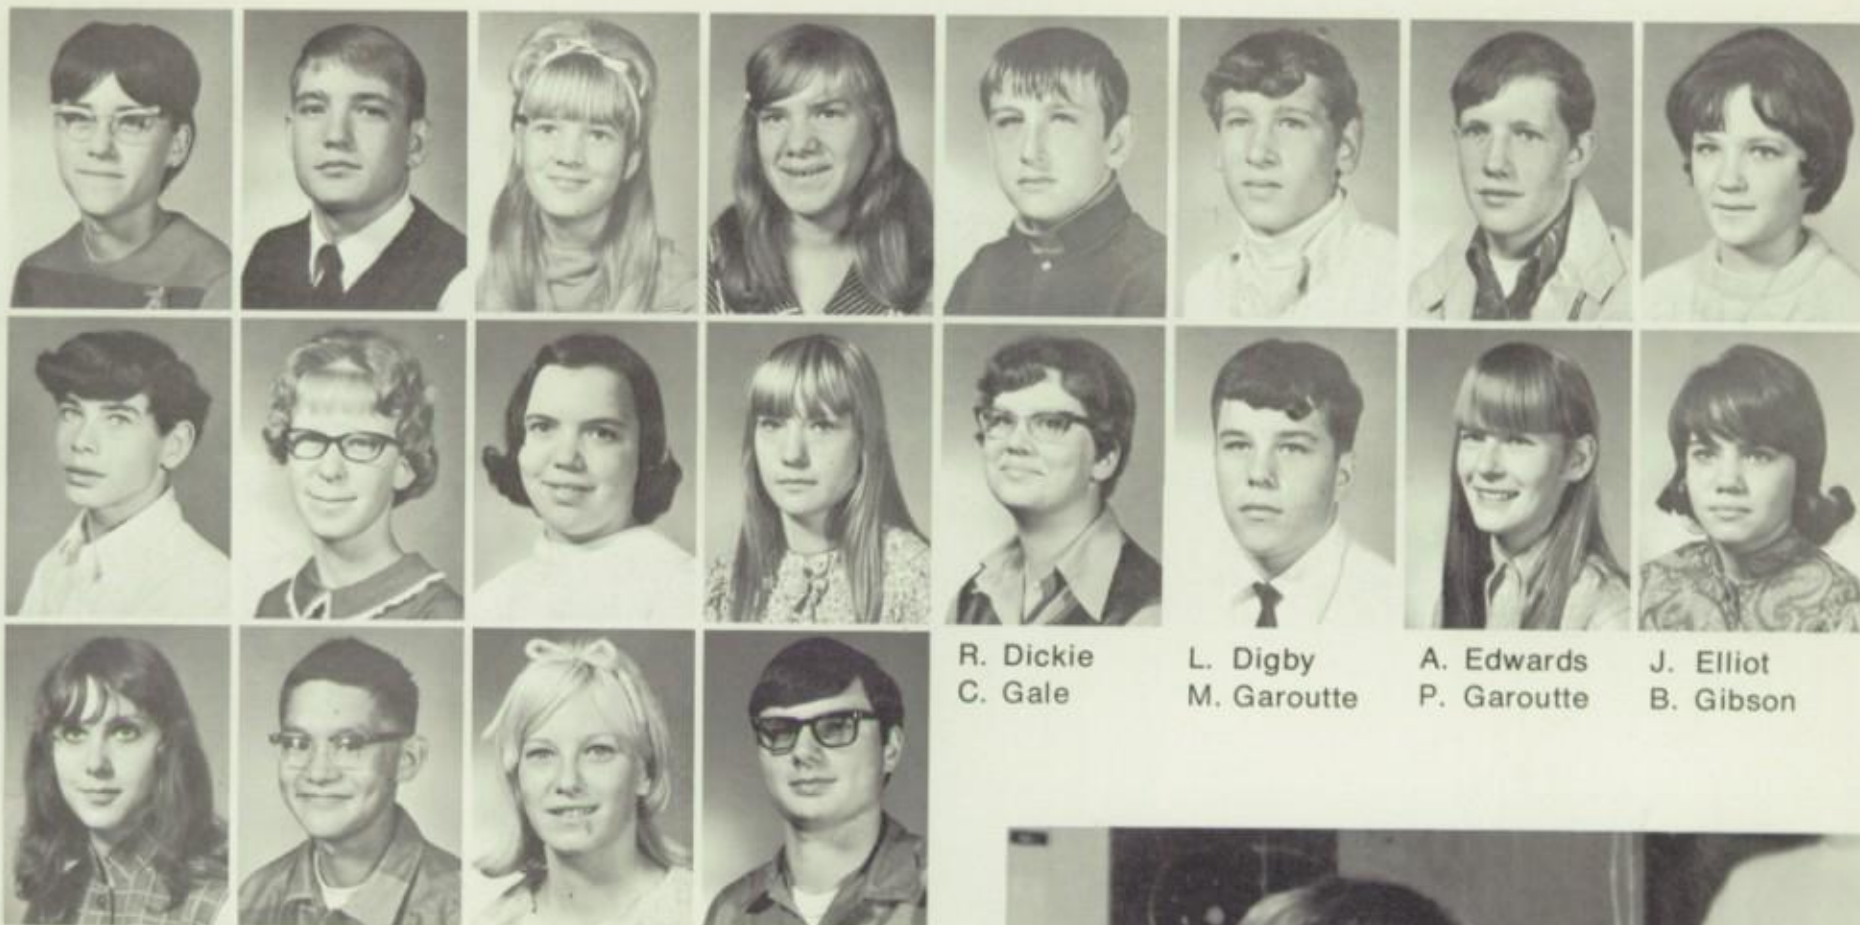

The class of '72 was the first class to have a resource center opened to them, and a ten minute break between second and third periods in the morning.

The frosh were headed by Skip Davidson, president; Susan Bertucci, vice-president; Alice Foster, secretary; Patti Garoutte, treasurer; and Cindy Leigh, publicity manager. Their student council representatives were Nancy Huff, Deanna Kempton and Sandy Hinch.

The freshmen were cheered on by Cindy Leigh, Deanna Kempton and Queen Betsy Daniels. By the end of the year, the freshmen had merged into Douglas.

Seniors Make "Big Splash-down"

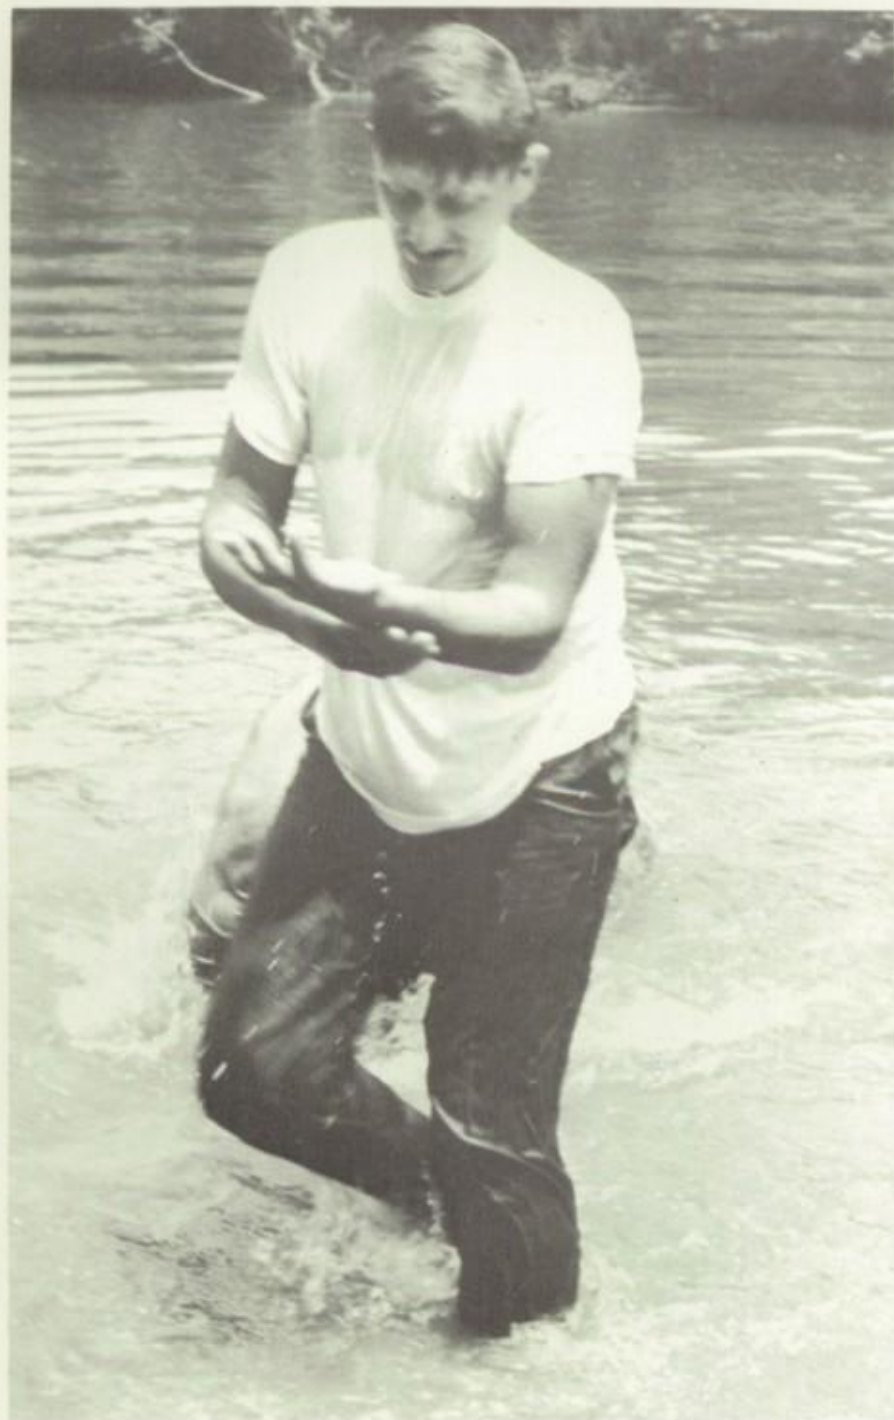

"O.K. who's the creep with the dry clothes on." As it turned out after the senior picnic there were very few who ended up with clothes as dry as when they arrived. All but two seniors were bodily thrown into the South Umpqua at Stanton Park in Canyonville. The seniors made their last fun activity one to remember.

Money was one of the major problems for the senior picnic. They had hoped to have enough money to purchase chicken for the whole class. The night before the picnic however everyone had to be notified to bring their own food.

Other activities for the week involved three days of meals planned by the seniors. Meals consisted of hamburgers on Monday, hamburger gravy and hot rolls on Tuesday and hotdogs on Wednesday. These seemed to be the favorite meals of the class of '69.

The seniors were also allowed to leave early for lunch.

AFTER BEING THROWN in the river by some spirited seniors, Vice-Principal Jim Wells trudged slowly out of the river.

ED ROBERTSON, DIENNA Parret, Ken Collyer, Candy Zimmerman, Chris Meyer and Mike St. Clair enjoyed the senior picnic.

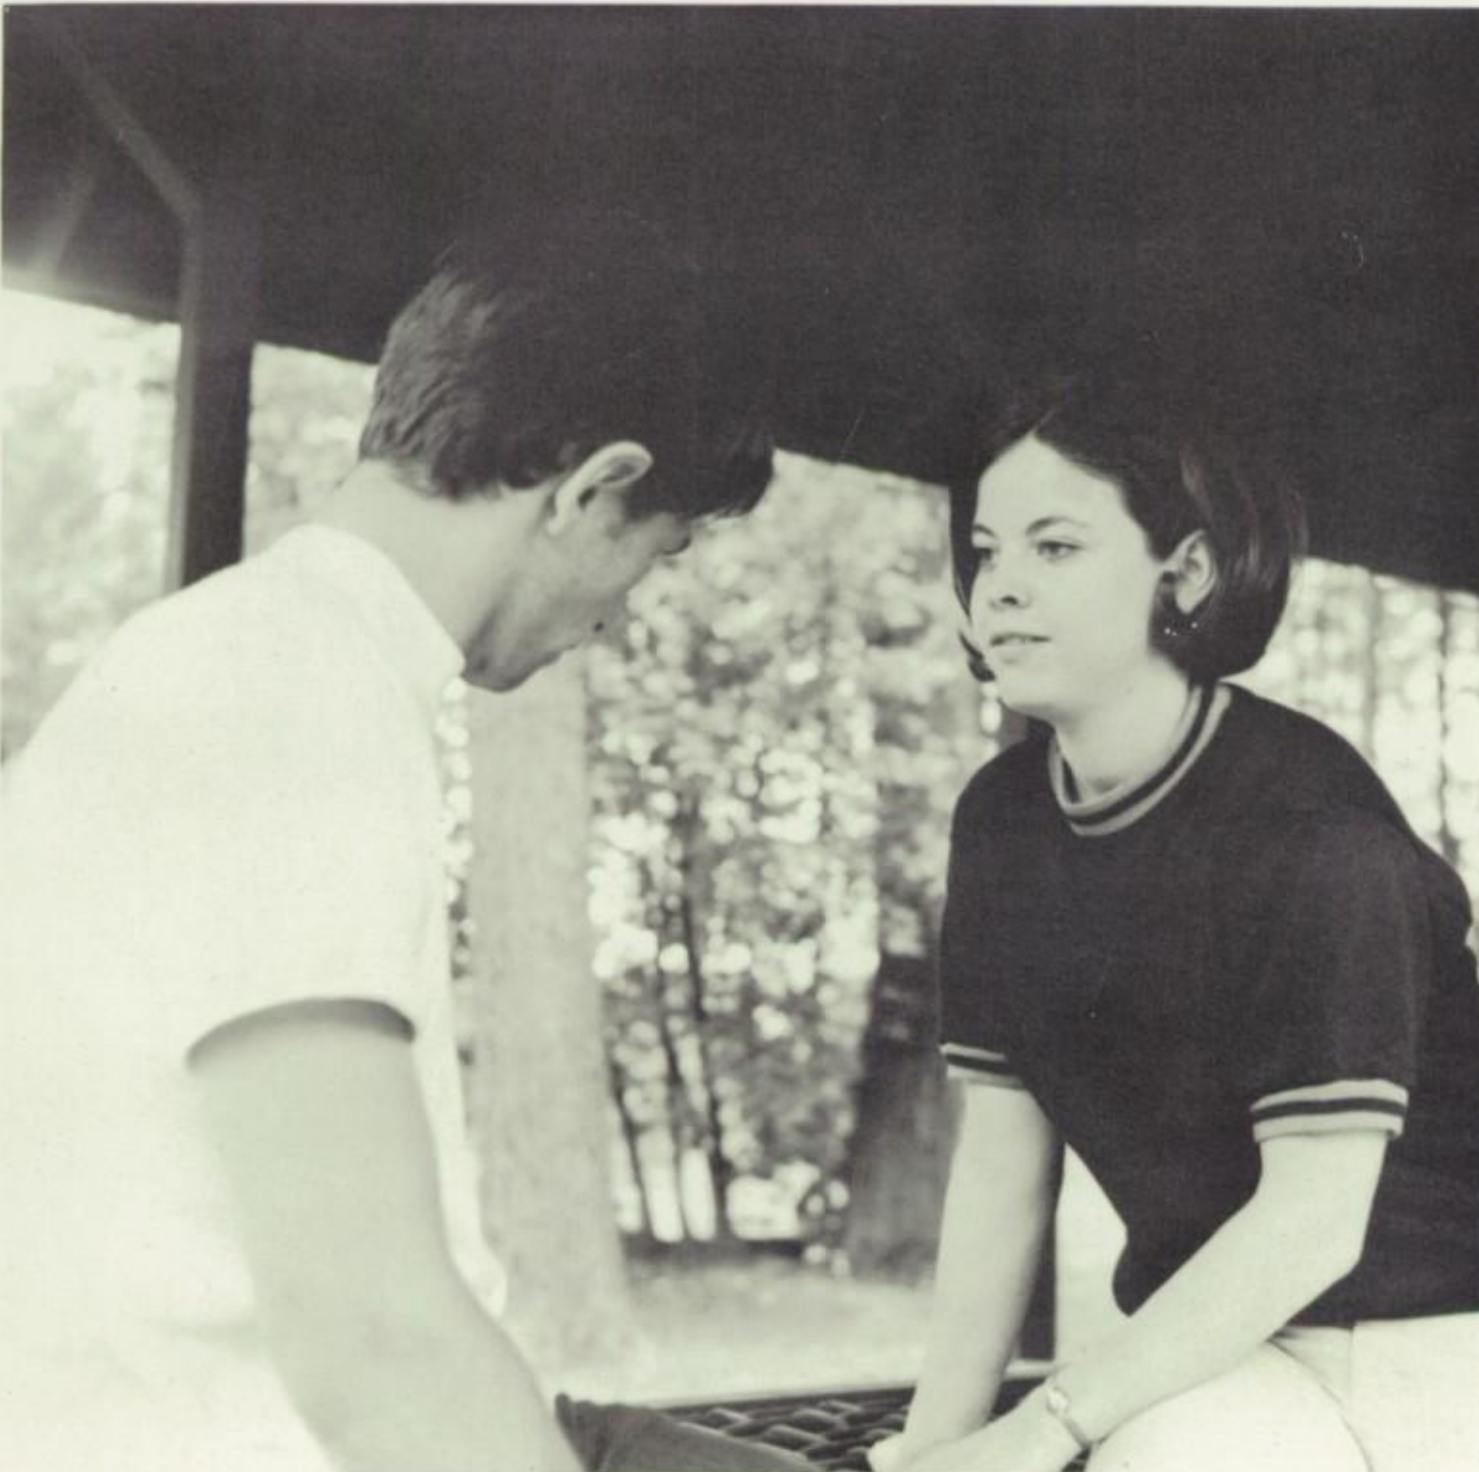

FORCEFULLY DRAGGING JON Sportsman into the river at Stanton Park are Chris Berquist, Jose Apraiz and Bruce Ellis.

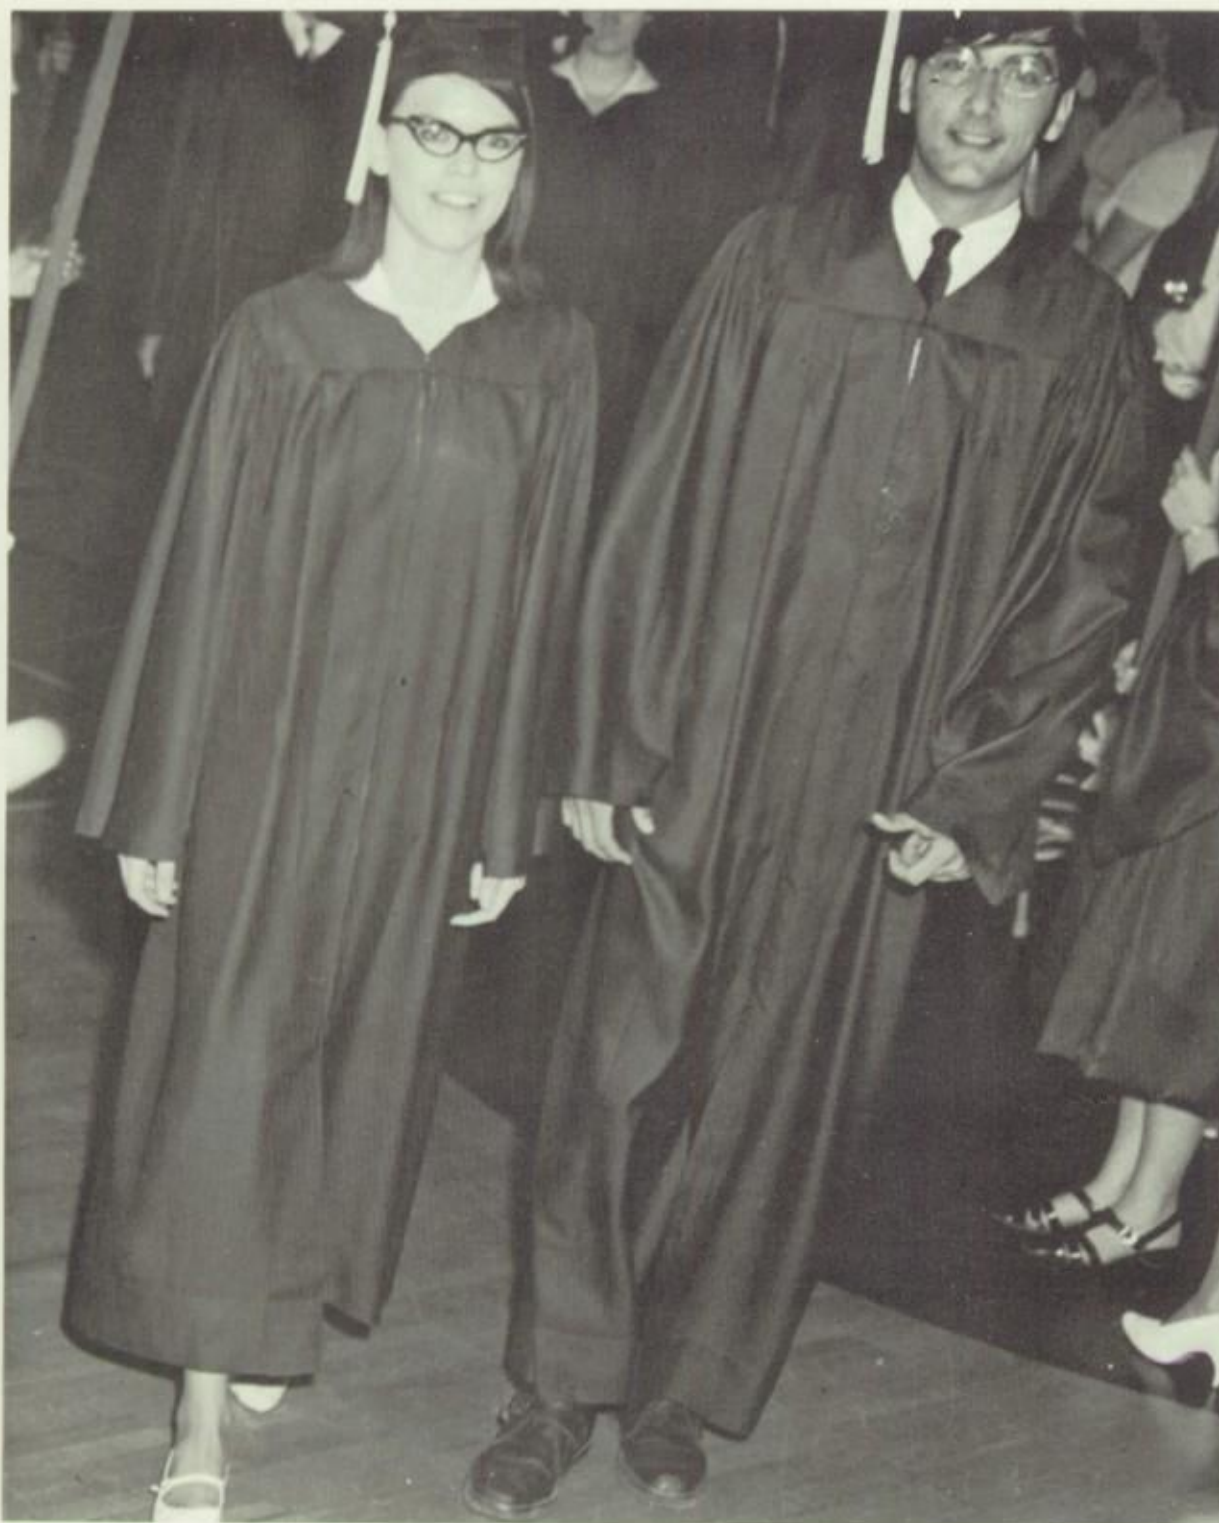

COUNSELOR DAVE OBERT presented a state scholarship to senior Gary Deal on Senior Awards night May 28.

SENIORS GINNI POWELL and Don Kimball took advantage of the covered area at Stanton Park.

LEADING THEIR CLASS to the sound of "Pomp and Circumstance" were Fran Eckes and Tom Chasm.

SOME OF THE senior girls tried to

"Never An End . . ."

On June 2, 1969 Douglas High School seniors, dressed in crimson robes solemnly marched into the gymnasium to the sounds of "Pomp and Circumstance." Although this signified graduation, and there were tears of happiness and sorrow shed, for the class of '69, there is "never an end, always a beginning."

During commencement exercises 4 speeches were given. The central theme of the salutatorians addresses, given by Peggy Hooten and Chris Buettner were "Hope" and "Responsibilities in life." Other salutatorians were Marilyn Alexander and Craig Post. Valedictorian Margaret Day spoke on "Self-honesty." The main speaker of the evening was Dr. Raymond Lowe, director of V.I.S.T.A. at the University of Oregon.

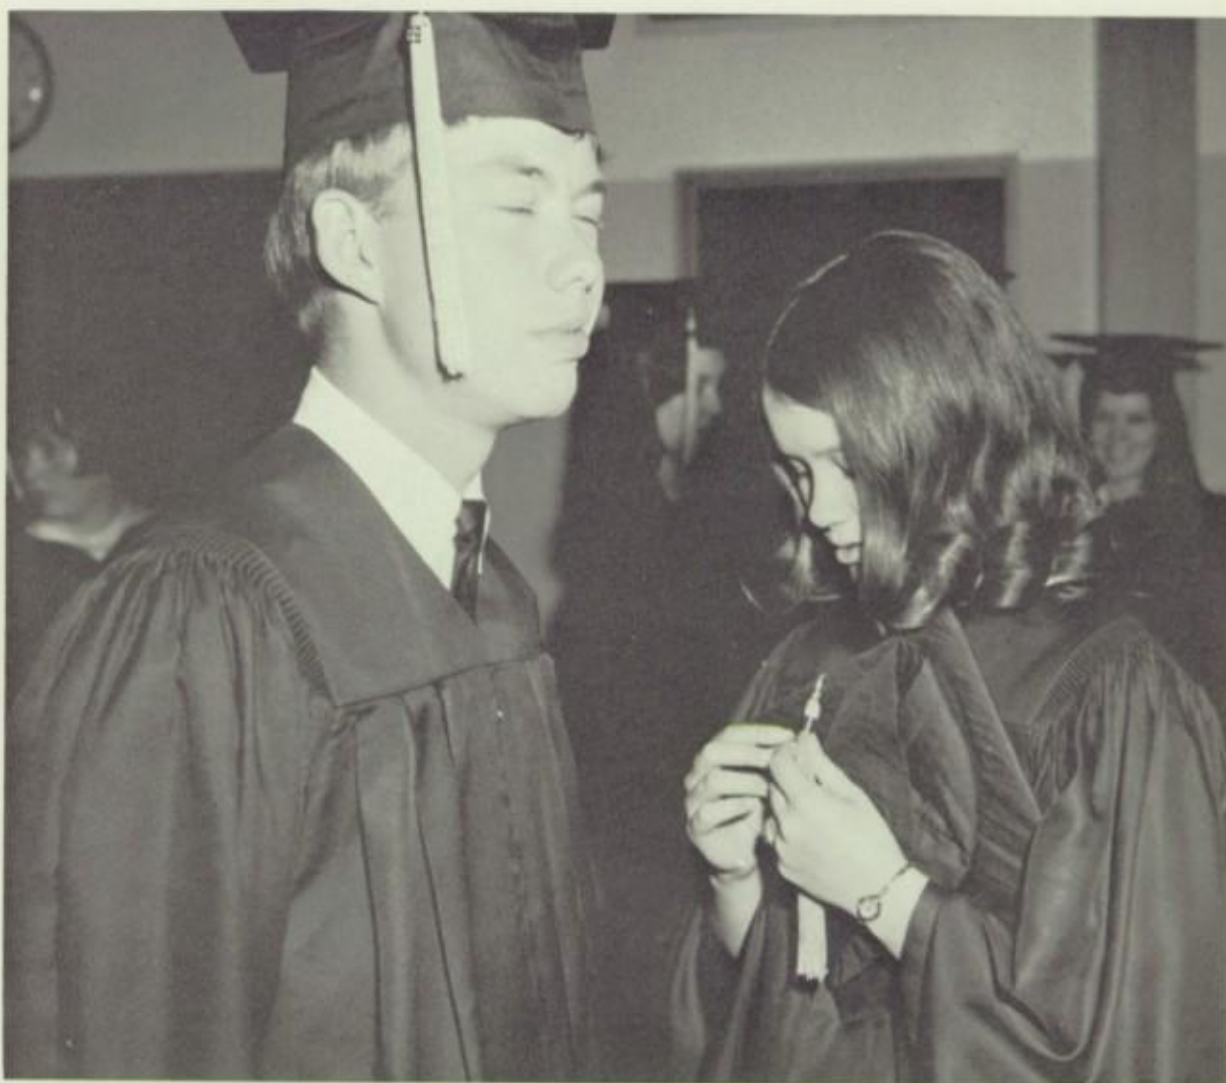

The responsibility of decorating the stage was given to the sophomores. They did this with white napkins on chicken wire.

The senior class flower was the rose, their colors, crimson and gold.

Honor ushers were juniors Kay Miller and Tim Dowdy.

May 26, 1969

Today was the beginning of Senior Week. As one of their privileges, the seniors were excused to lunch early. The lunches were planned by the senior class. After lunch the student body was invited to the Lettermen's style show where "Stephanie" Steve Vandermark was voted the best dressed.

For the class of '69 it's almost over, graduation is June 2, but for the rest of the freshmen, sophomores and juniors that will join the DHS ranks again next year, there are still final tests next week and next year.

It's hard to believe that the year has passed so quickly! Hard to believe that the TROJAN is almost completed.

I'd like to thank the TROJAN staff for their cheerful efforts and our advisor Bill Lapp. It will be a long time before any of the staff forget "how to operate in a darkroom."

Special thanks go to Niki Harris for designing the TROJAN cover, Moderne Studios and Jack Briggs for taking the formal group shots, the local business establishments who helped finance the TROJAN, Inter-Collegiate Press, our publisher, and their representative, "Ronnie" Manchus, for his unfailing help and interest.

It is hoped that You find the TROJAN successful in helping to recall the 1968-69 school year.

Claudia Ching,
TROJAN editor
